Promotion for State Lawmen Is Announced

BOISE, June 2 (AP)—The creation of two new positions in the Idaho state police and the promotions of yesterday by Don I. Walker, state Thursday by Don I. Walker, state budget director and chairman of the state police merit board.

Lieut. Clark Hand, now district lieutenant at Twin Falls, was advanced to the newly-created rank of captain of operations and will be second in command to Supt. A. E. Perkins.

Walker said Hand will be in charge of all state police districts. The new position, he said, will give Perkins more time to devote to planning and other administrative duties.

The new position calls for a pay scale of $600 to $700 per month, Walker said. Sgt. M. J. Baya, Jr., will take charge of the Twin Falls district until a replacement is named for Hand.

Weaver Bickle, officer in charge of the port of entry at Coeur d'Alene, has been named a sergeant and will be in charge of all ports of entry operations in the state.

Both Bickle and Hand will make their headquarters in Boise.

Sgt. Kenneth De Young, Lewiston, was promoted to the rank of lieutenant and will be in charge of district two with headquarters in Lewiston.

The promotions will become effective July 1.

Burley Hosts World War I Vets Meeting

BURLEY, June 2—Business sessions began Friday morning for the annual convention of the sixth department, World War I veterans of Idaho. A joint session of the men and auxiliary was held in the Elks hall.

Approximately 150 persons from throughout the state had registered by mid-morning. Hosts for the event is the Snake River barracks 1055, which includes Burley and Rupert members.

The Rev. Emil J. Helseth gave the memorial address Thursday night at the Burley First Christian church. Highlight of the service was the presentation of a miniature three- by five- foot "Flanders Field," during a ceremony conducted by Chaplain John Frazee, state department chaplain.

"Flanders Field" is to be used annually and was made by the World War I veterans at the Boise Veterans hospital. One is a wheelchair patient and the other is paralyzed in both arms. Mrs. Hattie Wallace sang two songs during the services accompanied by Mrs. Bill Mathews. Darlene Wall was organist.

Beet Leafhopper Movement To Be Less Than Anticipated

The movement of beet leafhoppers, carriers of curly top virus that infects some bean plants in Magic Valley, won't be nearly as large as was anticipated a month ago, says Keith Evans, Twin Falls, plant pest control division, U.S. department of agriculture.

Heavy populations of the insects exist, however, on weed patches within cultivated areas, the entomologist said. Farmers are urged to control these by spraying host plants with DDT or malathion mixture.

"Otherwise severe local damage to beans may take place," said Evans.

Development of the entire spring generation out on the desert areas has been retarded, however. And in areas where the insect numbers were large, airplane spraying with insecticide has eliminated huge numbers.

Evans said almost 15,000 acres of host plant areas in the vicinity of Mountain Home-Glenns Ferry were sprayed from the air, in addition, railroad right-of-ways from Jerome to Wendell to Bliss were also sprayed with insecticide.

Weather also has played a strong role in cutting down what looked like a huge invasion of leafhoppers into the valley a month ago.

Variable weather in May cut down on the development of the nymphs on the host plants, and drought cut down the growth of the host plants on which the nymphs feed and develop into adults.

18 South Idaho Counties Named For Federal Aid

BOISE, June 2 (UPI)—The Idaho agricultural stabilization and conservation committee (ASC) today assumed administration of a federal-aid program for 18 southern Idaho counties declared emergency drought areas. Agricultural Secretary Orville Freeman has made $745,000 in federal funds available to help Idaho farmers and irrigators in those counties. Emergency farmers home administration loans also have been made available to farmers in Owyhee, Gooding, Elmore, Twin Falls, Cassia, Lincoln, Blaine, Butte, Custer, Lemhi, Clark, Jefferson, Teton, Caribou, Bannock, Power, Franklin and Bear Lake counties.

The ASC said farmers should make applications through their local ASC committees. The ASC added federal funds would be limited to $2,500 per farmer.

The Idaho disaster committee had originally asked that 10 southern Idaho counties be made disaster areas and requested $925,000 in aid for the water-starved farmers and irrigators.

The U. S. department of agriculture, however, told Sen. Frank Church and Rep. Ralph Harding, both Democrats, that officials did not consider some of the project requests of an emergency nature.

Since the federal funds would be matched by the users, Freeman informed Church and Harding that approximately $1,490,000 conceivably could be spent in the hard-hit counties.

The money would be spent to line irrigation ditches, deepen or drill new wells, construct irrigation dams, ponds and reservoirs, level land, reorganize irrigation systems and develop livestock watering sources.

Church, who is in Idaho this week, said he understood that county committees would start taking applications immediately.

Sheriff Says '1959 Murder Case Solved

MONTPELIER, June 2 (AP)—The 1959 slaying of a 21-year-old marine from Ft. Ripley, Minn., was reported solved today by Bear Lake County Sheriff Cliff Skinner.

The sheriff and Prosecutor Elbert Gass returned yesterday from Louisiana where they talked with Jimmy Guthrie Hampton, 19, Sandy Hook, Ky. She is serving two life sentences in Louisiana for murder.

Skinner said Hampton, Wayne Siegel, was killed while he was traveling through Idaho en route to his California base. He was found shot to death near here. His bloodstained auto was found 150 miles away.

Sheriff Skinner said last month that since Miss Hampton was known to have been in Idaho in 1959, he wanted to ask her about Siegel's murder.

The sheriff said he believed he had solved the murder of Siegel but he said he could not release any more information at this time.

Miss Hampton was charged last week with another Idaho slaying. But the case was dropped. Bill Rodger Hall, Crescent City, Calif., and Emmett Spencer of Sandy Hook were accused.

Hall was acquitted. Spencer is awaiting execution in Florida for still another murder.

Leftists Rally at Japan Parliament

TOKYO, June 2 (UPI)—More than 30,000 leftists demonstrated outside the parliament building today in the biggest anti-government rally since the Tokyo disorders that forced former President Eisenhower to call off his visit to Japan last year.

One group of about 2,000 heading for the parliament building marched past the U. S. embassy carrying pro-communist flags and shouting anti-American slogans.

The rally was called in protest against a government-backed measure, which would outlaw such mass demonstrations.

A strong force of police guarded parliament and blocked plans for a march into the building to block action on the bill.

Severe in East

BOISE, June 2 (UPI)—A state conservationist told Gov. Robert E. Smylie's special drought committee today he has found severe drought conditions in eastern Idaho.

John Hay said that on a tour of the eastern part of the state this week he found severe conditions in areas off the main Snake river canal system.

Robert Hodge, administrative assistant to the governor, said conditions were particularly severe at this time in areas principally dependent on dry-land operations. Hodge said the report would be given to Smylie when he returns from Washington, D. C., this afternoon.

Farm Worker Killed As Lightning Strikes

RUPERT, June 1—John McCallum, 25, farm laborer, was killed shortly after noon Thursday when he was struck by lightning during a violent electrical storm, while riding on a tractor at the Jack Duncan farm, 10 miles east of here.

After the storm the family noticed the tractor had not moved for a while so they went to check and found the body behind the tractor. Minidoka county Sheriff Theo Johnson was called about 2:30 p.m. when the body was found. Sheriff Johnson said McCallum was killed between 12 and 1:30 p.m., while the storm was at its peak. He was cultivating potatoes.

Mr. McCallum was born June 3, 1936, at Wheatland, Wyo., and was married there Oct. 3, 1943. The family has lived in Rupert the past two and a half years, coming here from Jerome. During World war II he served in the marines. He was an ordained minister of the Bible Baptist church.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Zada McCallum; three daughters, Nancy McCallum, Linda McCallum and Charlotte McCallum; three sons, John McCallum, jr., Glen McCallum and Daniel McCallum, all Rupert.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Walk mortuary with the Rev. Everett L. Winfrey, Jerome Bible Baptist church, officiating. The body will be sent to Wheatland for concluding rites.

Roof Lifted, Lines Toppled at Jerome

JEROME, June 2—Storms caused an estimated $1,000 damage to a North Side Canal company storage building and destroyed electrical appliances on the Clyde Ridgeway home in the Falls City district southeast of here about 5 p.m. Thursday. The two mishaps evidently were caused by separate storms as the roof of the canal building was lifted about three feet in the air by winds described by Russell King, canal company employe, as a "real twister."

He was in a shop across from the building. Strong winds blew down a high tension line at the Ridgeway home, and broken wires turned the yard into a "veritable fireworks," Mrs. Ridgeway said. Three of her children, ages 11, 8 and 2, and four neighbor children were playing in the yard only minutes before.

Mrs. Ridgeway had called them inside when she saw dust coming across the field.

Her older daughter, Laura, 14, was sitting between the oil furnace and the television set when the lines fell. Her mother says the girl screamed and was knocked unconscious to the floor.

Her legs and back still have a tingling sensation today, but the girl has no apparent burns. She was slated for examination by a physician Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Ridgeway said the television set literally "went up in smoke." Force of electrical impact knocked one of the plates from the stove across the room. The fuse box "exploded like a bomb" and burst into flame. The woman said she ran outside and threw dirt on it.

Fifteen linemen of the Idaho Power company worked until 3:30 a.m. Friday to repair the damage. Six other poles also were toppled by the wind.

Ridgeway, who farms for the Darrell Brownleys, had just left with his car to irrigate when the wind fell. Neighbors later said as he drove down the road the power poles were toppling behind him. One pole was blown down and

Jury Indicts 21 on Stock Fraud Count

MIAMI, Fla., June 2 (UPI)—Twenty-one persons were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on charges of fixing the market price of an oil stock and operating a nationwide mail fraud scheme.

Among those named was Lyman Louis Cromer, ex-president of the Salt Lake City Stock exchange. He was accused of plotting to manipulate stock prices of the Columbus Rexal Oil company, a Salt Lake City firm.

Another defendant was Alfred D. Laurence, former Miami stock broker who was charged last January with plotting to move stolen securities from the United States to a Swiss bank.

Also named were the Columbus Rexal company, now in receivership, and the Columbia Securities company of Florida, which later called itself Alfred D. Laurence and company.

The securities and exchange commission said "the defendants caused various corporations with spurious or no assets to be merged into Columbus Rexal, which resulted in the issuance of over 12,000,000 shares.

"Among the many misrepresentations charged are that the buying of Columbus Rexal shares was the same as having money in the bank and just as safe, that the stock would double and triple in 60 to 90 days."

NEWS BULLETINS

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The house appropriations committee today went on its biggest spending spree of 1961, recommending 14.41 billion dollars in new funds for the agriculture department and 23 independent federal agencies.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Gene Tunney contended today Ingemar Johansson, the Swedish boxer, "was a sick man" suffering from a brain trauma when he lost to heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in their bout this year. Tunney told the senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee "the monopoly" wouldn't stand for an electronic examination which he said would have shown Johansson not physically fit for the bout.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Senate veterans of farm legislation today advised Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to sharply trim requests in his omnibus long range farm proposals if he wants congressional passage this year. "I'm certain we'll have to make many changes in the guidelines before we can send it on to the senate," Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D., La., said.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo, June 2 (AP)—Congolese soldiers have gone on a week-long rampage of massacre and arson in Kivu province again, the United Nations reported today. Thousands of tribesmen have fled into the mountains, and U. N. officials have set up an aid program for the refugees.

Leaders Agree on West Berlin Issue As Talks Conclude

PARIS, June 2 (AP)—President Kennedy and President De Gaulle today ended their three-day talks with a communique confirming agreement on their obligations toward West Berlin. The joint statement, issued on the eve of President Kennedy's departure for Vienna and a meeting with Premier Khrushchev, told of a basic agreement between the two western statesmen. Kennedy himself, in a talk to reporters, said his discussions with De Gaulle have given him greater confidence than ever in his approach to the Vienna meeting.

"The power of the United States, plus that of those countries associated with the United States is enough to give encouragement to any western leader, and I think Mr. Khrushchev has the same view," Kennedy said.

He declared De Gaulle and he agree that the western power rights in West Berlin must not be modified by force or the threat of force. Berlin will be among the problems he will discuss with Khrushchev.

The chief executive, speaking at a press luncheon, also expressed guarded hope that the Khrushchev conference will lead to progress in two separate East-West negotiations under way at Geneva—on the future of Laos and on a nuclear weapons test ban.

But Kennedy indicated his chief

Russ Arrives In Vienna to See Kennedy

VIENNA, June 2 (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived here today to establish "personal contact" with President Kennedy in a summit week-end and "to exchange views on the major problems that have upset relations between the Soviet Union and the United States and the world."

In a prepared speech at the south railroad station, Khrushchev said he hoped for a speedy solution of problems. "But we know that everything can not be done at once."

Khrushchev preceded President Kennedy to Vienna by a day to set the stage for their historic conferences, tomorrow and Sunday.

"We have come to Vienna to meet with the United States president, Mr. Kennedy," the Soviet premier said after stepping down from the train that brought him on leisurely stages from Moscow across Russia to the capital of neutral Austria.

He said he had "major problems" to discuss with the American chief of state.

"We Soviet people would, of course, like all outstanding issues to be settled as soon as possible. But we know that everything can not be done at once."

On hand was 70-year-old V. M. Molotov, the veteran former Soviet foreign minister and premier who now spends his twilight days in Vienna as one of Russia representatives to the atomic energy agency.

Only a few years ago, Molotov was purged by Khrushchev of his government and party posts for "anti-party activity."

Judge Orders Halt to Race Barrier Tests

By The Associated Press

A stern federal judge today ordered four "Freedom Rider" organizations to stop their tests of foreign travelers and persons planning further court action.

At the same time, U. S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson, jr., issued a sweeping no-bus-violence order at Montgomery, Ala., against Montgomery police, the Ku Klux Klan and four individuals.

And, in strong words, he threatened to jail Negro as well as white leaders if racial rioting breaks out here again.

Johnson issued a temporary injunction to compel Montgomery, Ala., police to protect "Freedom Riders" in the future.

Johnson also continued in effect an existing no-violence restraining order against two Ku Klux Klans including three individuals, and put a fourth individual under injunction.

The judge granted a temporary injunction to prohibit rider sponsors—including the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), from interfering with interstate bus travel.

In his order against Police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan and Chief G. J. Ruppenthal, the judge prohibited them from refusing or failing to provide protection for segregation-challenging riders or other interstate passengers.

The justice department, which asked for the injunction, had accused police of deliberately failing to protect riders from a mob which attacked them here May 20. Federal attorneys also blamed the Klan for the violence here and at Birmingham and Anniston, Ala.

Suspect Arrested as Trujillo Is Mourned

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D. R., June 2 (UPI)—The government today disclosed the arrest of a suspect in the assassination of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo while an estimated 150,000 mourners filed into the national palace to pay homage to the slain strong man. The mourners, many weeping hysterically, gathered shortly before burial of the 69-year-old leader who ruled this nation with an iron hand for 30 years. The generalissimo was caught in an ambush and fatally wounded by machinegun fire Tuesday night.

The suspect taken into custody was Huascar Tejeda Reina. Police also acted a priest identified as the Rev. Gabriel Maduro, who was accused of harboring Tejeda.

Police sources said Tejeda admitted he was at the priest's home on the night of the assassination but he denied any connection with it. The Rev. Father Maduro denied harboring Tejeda.

Retired Gen. Juan T. Diaz, who was said to be the chief plotter, and at least four alleged accomplices, were still at large.

Trujillo's body was taken from his personal residence during the night and placed in the lobby of the flower-filled national palace. At 6 a.m. the palace doors were opened.

The generalissimo's widow came to the coffin which was covered with a Dominican flag and flanked by six candles. She was the only member of the immediate family present.

Trujillo's son, Rafael, jr., who took command of the armed forces and thus became his father's successor, did not appear at the palace.

Security police estimated that in the first hour 50,000 persons had filed by the coffin four abreast.

An estimated 100,000 others were outside the palace waiting for a chance to enter.

Dominican officials said it was the greatest mass demonstration of mourning in the history of the western hemisphere.

Many persons, mainly women, wept hysterically. One woman became so unnerved that it took four policemen to calm her and escort her to an ambulance for treatment.

Concern for "Repression" Is Expressed

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI)—The state department expressed serious concern today about reports of "extreme measures of unwarranted repression" going on in the Dominican Republic.

Department spokesman Lincoln White also said there have been "unconfirmed reports" of fighting in the Dominican Republic near the Haitian border following the assassination of Rafael Trujillo.

White said the rumors of "extreme measures" by the Dominican government "are not yet substantiated."

But he said: "We are seriously concerned about these reports but are awaiting further information."

White said he had no details on reports of fighting and stressed that these were still "rumors."

Asked about suggestions made in congress that the Organization of American States (OAS) take steps, White said: "I don't think it has yet reached that stage."

He said there are still no reports of any harm to Americans in the Dominican Republic. Asked whether the navy was moving to protect Americans, he said, no.

"But I'm not going to predict what the future would bring about this situation erupt," he added.

Officials here were trying to evaluate the Dominican situation on the basis of sketchy facts and a swarm of rumors.

GOP Selects Leader; Ike Slaps Demos

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Rep. William E. Miller of New York, today was unanimously elected chairman of the Republican national committee.

Miller, generally regarded as a middle-of-the-road Republican, succeeds Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky who resigned to allow himself more time to campaign for reelection to the senate next year.

Miller, 47, is the party's 43rd chairman, and the second Roman Catholic to serve in the post since the GOP was organized in 1856. The first Catholic chairman was Thomas H. Carter of Montana, in 1892-96.

Miller supported former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination last year, but says he is neutral on a 1964 candidate.

As chairman, Miller will direct the party battle to carry out what Sen. Dwight D. Eisenhower calls its "clear mandate" to attack President Kennedy's program.

Eisenhower laid before a cheering audience of 6,000 party faithful at a $100-a-plate dinner last night a battle plan under which he said "for America's sake, we take sharp issue with the leadership now in power."

Assassin Killed

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D. R., June 2 (UPI)—Dominican security police shot and killed one of the alleged assassins of Dictator Rafael Trujillo today while, thousands of hysterical mourners stormed the national palace in an effort to glimpse the coffin of their slain leader.

The government said secret police shot their way into a house in Ciudad Trujillo and killed Army Lieut. Max Amado Garcia Guerrero, still on active duty, and captured three others of the alleged assassins.

The British-and-Soviet-co-chaired conference, 14-nation gathering tentatively scheduled another session for Monday morning.

Leafhopper

Rainfall due to the alternate cold and warm weather in May, the hatch was delayed so that the movement of leafhoppers into cotton fields is expected to start about 10 days later than normal. The movement this year is expected to start about June 8, and should reach its peak the first week in July.

Movement into Gooding, Jerome and Lincoln counties, however, is still expected to be higher this season than last year. These areas also have large fields of weed patches which farmers should spray, according to officials of the plant pest control division, the bureau of entomology, both USDA, and the extension entomologist, University of Idaho.

Movement into western Twin Falls county is expected to be lighter this year, primarily due to the lack of host plants in the Saylor creek area.

Host plants within the cultivated area in Jerome and Gooding counties were carrying nymphal populations of 33 per square foot on May 22. Twin Falls county has this same population of nymphs per square foot.

Viruliferous tests, those which determine the degree of curly top virus the leafhopper is carrying, show the amount is about the same as it was last year.

Kennedy

purpose in meeting with Khrushchev is to try to avoid the danger of a miscalculation which could lead to war.

"My purpose is to permit a much more precise judgment on matters involving the interests of the United States and its allies and the interests of the Soviet Union and the various countries associated with it," he said.

"It is important that we understand his (Khrushchev's) viewpoint and the implications of it, and it is equally important that he understand ours."

Kennedy said a study of three wars shows miscalculation as one of the causes. He evidently referred to the two world wars and the conflict in Korea.

"The United States," Kennedy declared, "is united in its determination to fulfill its commitments."

And he said his talks with De Gaulle have given him a feeling of confidence in the future.

Speaking at a press luncheon, the U. S. chief executive said the most striking impression he would carry away was of the vitality and dynamism of the French people.

He said he was very happy to express publicly his appreciation of De Gaulle's qualities of leadership.

Referring to specific policy issues of the cold war, Kennedy declared the United States still hopes to reach agreement with the Soviet Union in Geneva on a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests.

Kennedy also praised Britain and France for their "wise and sympathetic policies" toward the newly independent countries which were their former colonies. He said these British and French policies have strengthened the free world.

the weight of the wires was heavy enough to pull down the other five poles which were rotted at the bottom, Mrs. Ridgeway said.

The Ridgeway family spent the night at the home of her mother, Mrs. L. C. Bevins, Jerome. Mrs. Ridgeway said she believed the water heater, television and stove were ruined, but had not been checked as yet.

Water pipes in the basement of the house also burst when the electrical "fireworks" began. Mrs. Brownley, who had driven to the tennant house to see if her children were safe, returned to her home and disconnected the water.

The "twister" which damaged the canal company building in Jerome evidently was of a spot nature as only other damage in that area was at the M. H. Mahan place behind the canal building. An empty rabbit hutch was lifted off the ground and smashed.

The back of the canal storage building, which is 100 by 22 feet, also was pushed out by the wind. Two jeeps, a caterpillar and chemicals stored in the building were not touched.

Carroll Wilcomb, canal company manager, said an insurance adjuster will inspect the damage Friday afternoon.

Farmers in the Falls City area were without lights until linemen completed repairing the damage caused by the fallen poles.

Father Hurt as Car Upsets, Boy Lands in Trees

HAILEY, June 2—Charles E. Quinton, 43, Ketchum, is in Blaine County hospital with severe lacerations on the right side of his head and possible concussion after a one-car accident at 7:30 p.m. Thursday seven miles south of Bellevue on highway 93.

Quinton and his son, Wendell Quinton, 14, were returning home from Twin Falls when he lost control of his 1960 Chevrolet as he rounded a curve. The car rolled 276 feet and overturned several times according to state police.

When it stopped it was headed the opposite direction. The car came to rest in a grove of cottonwood trees. The boy was thrown up into the branches of the trees and bruised his right arm falling down.

Solicitor Law Discussed for Chamber Unit

The need for stricter licensing of solicitors was discussed during the Friday noon luncheon of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

William Grange, chamber secretary-manager, noted that during the morning three persons had come to the chamber office complaining about persons soliciting students for a correspondence school. Grange added that siding and roofing salesmen also are beginning to solicit business. He noted that the Green River ordinance restricts door-to-door salesmen in Twin Falls, but that anything can be sold over the telephone.

William Koch, president of the chamber board, suggested that the group study the present city licensing ordinances before making any decision or recommendation on the situation.

Grange reminded the board members that the annual Mexico Fiesta will be held Saturday afternoon. The parade will begin at 2 p.m., with activities scheduled at the city park and St. Edward's Catholic church and school throughout the afternoon and evening.

Cheese Connoisseurs! Check Holes, They May Be Phonies

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UP)—People who like Swiss cheese like it with holes in it.

Natural holes, that is.

So what do you think of punching the holes in with machinery, to make them look like nature's own handiwork?

It's cheating, thinks the federal food and drug administration. It said so yesterday, announcing it has moved for the seizure of 2,700 pounds of Swiss cheese shot through with phony holes.

The agency laid it on the line in a formal statement:

"A number of firms have been using Swiss cheese with little or no natural eye development for the preparation of packaged sliced Swiss cheese.

"They have made artificial eyes using appropriate mechanical devices and further promoted the concealment of inferiority by rearranging or by facing the outside of cellophane-wrapped sliced Swiss with slices having well-developed eyes and placing in the middle of the package some slices with no or fewer holes.

"The whole scheme of foisting off the inferior article is a deliberate one calculated to give the perpetrator a few cents a pound additional profit at the expense of the consumer."

"Those with 10% more training average 50% more income"

More Intense Training for Guard Asked

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UP)—The army, trying to meet President Kennedy's requirements for a combat-ready reserve, plans to intensify training of national guard and reserve divisions ticketed for quick callup in event of emergency.

But army officers voiced serious doubts today that these measures, involving an increase in weekly drills and summer training, would be enough to get the citizen-soldiers in shape for rugged field service.

From talks with army officials, it was evident many problems remain to be solved before realization of Kennedy's plan to mount a force of 10 guard and reserve divisions set to move to trouble spots within a few weeks after being ordered to duty.

In his special message last week, the President said the army "is developing plans to make possible a much more rapid deployment of a major portion of its highly-trained reserve forces."

When these plans are completed, Kennedy said, two combat-equipped divisions could be ready in an emergency for operations with but three weeks notice, a total of 10 divisions with less than eight weeks notice.

Not the smallest of the problems is re-equipping the guard divisions, now using mostly gear of World war II vintage.

And there is a political problem too. Army officials indicated some governors will have to be persuaded to give up strength in guard units under their control to permit building up of divisions earmarked for the quick reaction reserve force.

Of the 27 infantry and armored divisions in the national guard, seven infantry divisions are designated as high priority units constituting a ready reserve.

Rugged Highway

The exact status of the developing 41,000-mile interstate highway system needs to be cleared up.

It isn't proper to say it's "behind schedule" in the matter of miles of road constructed, since federal officials say there are no year-to-year mileage deadline. The only goal is to finish the entire network by 1972.

Right now the record shows 8,000 miles built and another 2,300 miles of previously constructed toll roads, tunnels and bridges drawn into the system.

Construction is under way on another 4,100 miles, with engineering work or land acquisition proceeding on 10,000 more. Altogether, work has been completed or begun on nearly 25,000 miles, about 60 per cent of the total.

When President Kennedy says the program is in trouble, he means it could have trouble getting up the money to finish by 1972.

The 90 per cent or more of cost generally supplied by the federal government can, under the law, come only from revenues fed into the special highway fund from gasoline taxes and other highway user levies.

With the total price tag for the program having already been boosted several times to cover rising costs, the judgment is that the 1972 deadline can't be met from presently authorized revenue sources. Completion would have to be stretched out to 1977.

Mounting evidence gleaned by house committees and independent investigators shows that the "rising costs" include untold millions of dollars scandalously lost—through lack of proper federal control—in graft, extravagant waste, and mismanagement at the state level.

To do the job on time means digging up another 9.7 billion dollars. The President thinks it can be done if congress will keep the existing four cent federal gasoline tax and add new, stiffer levies on the big trucks which use the roads.

The overall cost picture won't be affected by Kennedy's order directing immediate release of 724 million dollars which normally would have been allotted from the fund in the months up to June 30.

About 10 states, including New York, Ohio, Texas, California and the Dakotas, are sufficiently advanced in planning to put the money quickly to use. Here and there, contract letting may be speeded. But in many areas the money can't be handled now. Already allotted funds are backed up, waiting for plans.

For the long pull, however, the problem of rocketing costs has to be met tomorrow.

NEEDED: KEY FOR LOCK

Americans are justly proud of the great, resourceful, productive economy which has given them living standards the world envies. But they are learning slowly and painfully that it has some persistent major flaws.

The four recessions we have undergone since World war II cover a total time span equal to roughly five years. Before that war there was a deep slump which a good many economists now consider ran with little interruption for a staggering 12 years.

Thus we have been in economic declines of varying breadth and depth for more than half the 32 years since the 1920's boom collapsed in late 1929.

Of the remaining 15 years, seven were taken up by World war II and the 1950-53 Korean war. We cannot be sure what they would have been like had they been peaceful. But we do know that war added the sharp artificial stimulus of heavy military demand.

That leaves only eight nonwar years—one-fourth of the time—wherein we have enjoyed prosperity of an order that features not only heavy national output but reasonably full use of manpower and plant capacity.

For 10 of the 12 years of the Great Depression, unemployment never fell below 14 per cent of the civilian work force. In the 1932-35 span it ranged from 20 to 25 per cent. And the two "low" years were between 8 and 10 per cent.

Today we are properly concerned when joblessness starts moving much above the five per cent mark. But in our most recent recovery we did not in fact get below that level. Further worry is voiced over evidence that the "high periods" between recessions have been shrinking, from 45 months between 1938 and 1954 to 25 months in the most recent instance.

Government economists say that now, in this newest recession, we have about 80 billion dollars less annual output than we could have with full use of our capacity. What dollar measure could be put on all the unused capacity in the Great Depression and the four recessions suffered between 1929 and 1961?

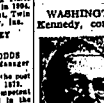
And who can gauge the human waste that has accompanied this obviously vast economic loss?

More and more leaders in business, labor and government are coming to the view that new, deeper assaults are needed on the nagging ills that afflict the fundamentally sturdy American economy.

Our standards continue high, and our resources of men and materials are great. But U. S. leaders agree we must find a better key to the steady and full use of the economic and human riches we have.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—In a major rebuff to President Kennedy, congressional Democrats refuse to surrender their grip on the political issues which their President used so effectively in his narrow defeat of former Vice President Nixon last year. That is the behind-the-scenes reason for house-senate refusal to grant his request more authority be given to his newly-appointed chairman of the federal communications commission, which supervises the operations of such political instruments as television and radio—Newton Minow. Rightly or wrongly, the political wisecracks on capitol hill believe that President Kennedy owes his victory over Nixon to their television debates, and to their executives' subsequent TV appearances they attribute his personal popularity. The White House has done nothing to destroy that impression.



Ray Tucker

On the contrary, President Kennedy has persisted in his resort to these media, despite some concern over its wisdom, by insisting on holding televised press conferences.

BILLIONS AT STAKE—Moreover, the TV-radio moguls have been inordinately kind and generous to the men on capitol hill. In view of the commercial value of the airways present and future, an investment of billions is at stake in this controversy.

Congressional finances also are involved. A member of congress can save many thousands of dollars in campaign expenditures if he enjoys access to TV or radio in the hands of a friend in his home district or state. Without leaving Washington on tiresome and expensive journeys, he can present his ideas and his image to his constituents.

It is not the major networks which grant these favors, although they have feathered their nest by cozying up to congress. It is the small, regional stations which run and rerun the tapes of speeches and interviews recorded in a congressionally financed studio on capitol hill. It is the easiest and most effective method of campaigning.

PROTECTING THEIR MEDIA—It is these local interests which were especially alarmed by the harsh lecture and warning recently broadcast by Chairman Minow. He declared that today's TV and radio programming constitute a "wasteland," and he warned that their licenses would not be renewed automatically. He hinted at a periodical check-up of their performances.

This indictment in particular worried the congressmen's favorite, local TV and radio friends back home. For they must depend on community merchants for their revenue rather than on major, national advertisers. And their programs, pitched to neighborhood interests, tend to be more dull and drab. They might be among Chairman Minow's first victims.

As evidence of this political selectivity in acting on the President's plan to reorganize the regulatory agencies and possibly subject them to greater White House control, there is the fact that no such opposition exists with respect to increasing the authority of the chairman of other independent bodies.

A government operations subcommittee in the house has approved the President's request to vest more power in the chairmen of the federal trade commission, the civil aeronautics board and the securities and exchange commission.

But the agency which supervises the political air waves will remain sacrosanct on capitol hill.

SUMMER VACATION ISSUE—Pesky Howard W. Smith, Virginia, still is pestering Speaker Rayburn in retaliation for the Texan's interference in the reorganization of chairman Smith's rules committee. This time, however, the vendetta has assumed a comic aspect.

The speaker, a bachelor, is angrily opposed to congressional demands for a July-August recess so that they may spend the vacation with their husbands and children at home. Washington is not an inviting summer resort because of the heat and humidity.

Chairman Smith, who worships order and routine as much as the speaker does, has always opposed a congressional break in the past. But how he has indicated his approval, and has arranged hearings on this domestic problem, the Sam's utter disgust.

GOVERNMENT MUST NOT LIE

It was a startling statement that Secretary of Defense McNamara made before the senate armed services committee in executive session.

He complained about public statements that the Nike-Zeus antimissile missile system is far from perfect. Why let the Russians know that? he asked.

What we ought to be saying is that we have the most perfect anti-ICBM system that the human mind will ever devise," McNamara continued.

How ridiculous! We are still in the infant stages of the second missile development. To say now that we have the finest system "the human mind will ever devise" would properly invite world ridicule.

More important, however, does the secretary suggest that the defense department deliberately hand out false information? In response to reaction against such an interpretation, the department quickly said that McNamara does not believe the public should be misled. This is encouraging, but it not what the secretary indicated in his earlier statement.

There is a serious problem of keeping certain military information from potential enemies. Certain material must be kept secret in the interests of national security. But it would be dangerously wrong to mislead deliberately the American people. A democracy cannot be led by its leaders and remain a democracy based on confidence and consent.

Incidentally, the public wouldn't know things it shouldn't if the military kept its military secrets.—Milwaukee Journal.

RUSSIANS LOOK UP INSTEAD OF EATING

There are two situations in the Soviet Union this year that are commanding world attention. One is the development of space rockets that already has put the Russians in front. To get a man up there and get him back first, the Soviets have the scarcity of meat on the tables of homes behind the Iron Curtain.

The meat shortage apparently is quite serious. It could make millions of Communist-governed families wish they could eat rather than read about scientific advances. Or wish they can have little practical application.

There was a shortage last year, when government slaughterhouses processed only 630,000 metric tons of meat in the first three months. This year only 548,000 tons have been processed in the same period, according to a Soviet economic report available in this country. The same report shows a reduction in output of cotton textiles, coal and some other products, with the rate of increase in production in steel, shoes and some others down as compared with last year.

The economic statistic that could really hurt, though, is the dwindling supply of consumer goods, especially in the cities. Some of the comrades in the rural areas evidently have not been working as hard for the glory of communism as they have been told to do. But the Kremlin can't expect to scold them, and remove a few officials, as he did last year when all agricultural production plummeted from the year before that.

Khrushchev doubtless knows, but could not profit by admitting it, that his people would do better work under a capitalist system. The profit motive could do wonders toward increasing the Soviet Union's food supply.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

A POSSIBLE FIRST

No one can predict just when the present Laos crisis will come to an end but a good odds bet will be that when it's over some more territory will be added under the Russian flag. If not, then President Kennedy will have a first for the start of his record, that deserves a medal.—Waldboro, Maine, Press.

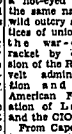
HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

It has been about 10 years since a hot-eyed reporter-columnist of the left exposed the ruling clique in the war effort as a political extension of the Roosevelt administration and the American Federation of Labor and the CIO.

From Cape Cod to San Diego, from Kansas City to New York, hither and yon, Westbrook Pegler laid forth his famous nuisance yowled and squawked. He squawked about the overtime racket, the fee and permit racket, the compulsory insurance racket and the extortion of billions of dollars.



Unskilled strangers were fired off their war jobs as soon as their exorbitant initiation fees were paid off by instalments and replaced by other, faceless gullibles on the same terms. Jobs were sold and deferments from the military draft was an authorized union concession.

This is not to say "I told you so," although I did tell you so a thousand times.

The occasion for this reminder is the disclosure that at Cape Canaveral the "missile gap" was aggravated and exploited by typical, greedy, licensed union racketeers of the Democratic party's constituency. The graft and abortion was arranged with Senator McClellan, a negative man, finally was moved to say that the government had been bilked. Bilked, he said—a loud word, coming from him.

There was at the moment a dramatic contrast between the versatile Senator and the wild character of the young officer who had just made our first flight from Canaveral into space and back.

All the rackets of the 40s were complicated with patriotism and the material of treason. Draft boards were acquired by men to get out of "non-essential" jobs and into the "wah effawt." And racketeers bestrode the roads to the plants selling permits without which they were barred from war jobs and sent to the army. Union officials wrote their own deferments.

It was a vile arrangement but only a minor phase of a colossal wrong. Yet, the good people, the people who did the fighting, could not across their moral fury. Hitler was monstrous, and the dictatorship of Brown Shirts over human beings an evil to be fought to death in Europe. But the wild mobs of the UAW under the Reuthers at home were democracy in action.

By 1944, Roosevelt touched off his campaign against Tom Dewey with an oration that fittingly insulted American ethics and intelligence and as young combat naval officers were beaten up by drunken henchmen of the Teamsters union for expressing disgust, public revulsion was only momentary.

Ever since, for all the palaver about Taft-Hartley and other diversions, the Democratic party, which is the labor union party, has refused to correct the defects in government rather than any lack of law that permits Canaverals and all such enormities.

There were 15,000 strikes in the "wah effawt," costing lives in battle and taxes in needless expense beyond any computer's power to guess. This was so although Kennedy's party had given the rackets a closed shop monopoly in exchange for a promise not to strike.

The election returns did not expunge the Kennedy brothers' protective attitude toward the corrupt nature of some unions throughout the McClellan hearings and in the coherent, futile efforts of a few decent Americans, notably Sen. Barry Goldwater, to bring the jackals to heel.

But meanwhile, popular conduct, first observed in Goldwater's own Arizona, is beginning to show an independent mind repudiating the established forms of unionism.

Some new body of labor is beginning to stir in the womb of political evolution.

In the Arizona state convention of the AFL-CIO, formal admission came from the rostrum that membership in all unions throughout the state had dropped one per cent in a year.

"So what if someone did accidentally give you a black eye in the last barroom brawl? It'll only make the scene more realistic."

"Oh, pshaw! Don't tell me the guy's gone and put his chaps on backward again."

"Now don't panic, Con but your stand-in is sick and couldn't show up. I'm afraid you'll have to ride the horse yourself today. But it'll be okay. We'll help you get on and off."

"Just walk up this step ladder slow and easy, put one leg over the saddle and—oops, he's fallen again."

"I don't know who the fastest gun in the West is, but I sure know who's the slowest."

"All right, Hamlet, get out of that velvet dressing gown and climb into your Levis. We've got a job to do."

"As I understand it, Con, the real old-timers snapped the gun in one hand, reins in the other, and they didn't shut their eyes when they pulled the trigger. And, by the way, do you have to hold it like it was a pineapple?"

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association

In preceding columns we've discussed some of the common causes for belly-ache and why you can go to obtain relief through simple measures for self-treatment.

Now before suggesting what you can do to help your doctor help you, we'd like to warn you of the dangers that can accompany or follow self-treatment that is ill-advised, over-enthusiastic or unduly prolonged.

Dr. Hyman

Do not resort to local use of ice or a hot bag with the idea of "freezing the infection" (appendicitis). The temperature within the abdominal cavity is not influenced by external applications, whether of heat or of cold. And freezing the skin may invite complications if operation has to be performed through the frozen area.

Do not take or give any medication other than aspirin or a related product. A powerful pain killer, such as an opiate, may mask symptoms with a resultant delay in seeking and obtaining proper treatment; a dose of a strong purgative may produce complications such as a peritonitis due to bursting of the appendix.

Do not continue taking a cortical steroid if you have been taking regular doses for some unrelated condition. Cortical steroids possess an anti-inflammatory reaction that may mask localizing pain and favor perforation of an ulcer with resultant peritonitis.

Do not assume the responsibility of home treatment if the attack of abdominal pain is the first of its kind. If it is severe and/or persistent, if it is accompanied by fever or any other manifestations suggestive of serious illness and/or if it fails to respond promptly to measures previously detailed.

To help your doctor help you, be prepared to give accurate and concise details pertinent to the attack.

These include an account of events immediately preceding attack, a description of previous attacks and their responses to treatments, findings and procedures at previous abdominal operations, especially as to the removal of the appendix, changes in appetite, eating habits, bowel movements, urination and the appearance of stools and urine, dates of last and next expected menstrual periods, etc. And, don't forget to provide specimens of urine and stool, collected during and/or immediately after the attack.

ROME, Italy — One of the great natural resources of the United States is going to waste.

I have in mind our nation's sidewalks.

There must be hundreds of thousands of miles of sidewalks in the United States that are scarcely any of them are under cultivation.

Mr. McLemore

By "cultivation," I mean planting them with sidewalk cafes.

Europe, as everyone knows, makes tremendous use of its sidewalks. Those of Italy and France, especially, are in full bloom from early spring to early winter with umbrellas, chairs and tables.

When the French and Italians run out of sidewalks, they move out into the streets, and more than once I have had to tuck in my feet during soup or dessert to keep my toes from being run over by a Fiat, a Renault or a brace of scooters.

The cultivation of a sidewalk is simplicity itself. The Europeans make no production of it. They give the sidewalk a lick and a promise with a broom, haul out a few tables and chairs, most of which are unsteady on their legs, and are in business.

We Americans take to these outdoor dining rooms as if we had been eating on sidewalks all our lives. So do the English, who are supposed to worship privacy.

There is no privacy at a sidewalk cafe. Cats and dogs wander in and out among the tables, and passersby in cabs, cars, hacks and on bicycles, have a good view of the diners' technique with spaghetti, asparagus and soup.

Now and then a pedestrian will stop and help one order one's meal. A few days ago a middle-aged man stopped when he heard me order sauerkraut and suggested I try something else. He said the canneloni wasn't very good at this particular place, and suggested rice and chicken livers. It turned out to be excellent.

The prices at the sidewalk cafes depend a great deal on what street they are located. All Rome's streets are gradations of deluxe, first-class, second class and so on down the line. The food at a place on a deluxe street may not be any better than that on a third class street, but the prices will be twice as high.

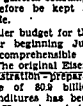
The celebrated Via Veneto recently had its rating reduced from deluxe to first class, and the irregulars at the tables at Doney's are very much upset. They are hopeful, however, that the cost of a cup of coffee and a postage stamp chicken sandwich will come down from $2 to about $1.90 as a result.

After seeing the way we Americans go for sidewalk cafes, it's a wonder that restaurateurs haven't put our sidewalks to use. With our heavy traffic, there would be a risk of having the soup taste a bit like premium extra gasoline, but then soup with a little antiknock in it might well give a man many more miles to the gallon.

WASHINGTON

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—Republican opposition to Kennedy administration programs as they now stand after two revisions is that they call for huge spending which makes them irresponsible.



Peter Edson

This criticism, as voiced by house Republican leader Charlie Halleck, Indiana, and echoed by senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen, Illinois, is based on long range projections which the GOP spokesmen admit they cannot vouch for.

There is a temptation here to cite a lot of statistics to try to prove something. But when anyone gets to tossing the millions and billions around, the result is apt to be a meaningless confusion of figures which only a certified expert can understand. Any analysis for general consumption must therefore be kept as simple as possible.

The new frontier budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is not too incomprehensible as it now stands. The original Eisenhower administration proposed budget of 80.9 billion dollars in expenditures has been raised by the Kennedy administration to 86.9 billion dollars, a five per cent increase.

This is a record peacetime budget, the third highest in history. It was exceeded in two World war II years by billion dollar expenditures in 1944 and 98 billion dollars in 1945.

The Eisenhower administration-prepared budget estimated a surplus of 1.2 billion dollars, with collections of 82.3 billion dollars.

The Kennedy revised budget now estimates a deficit of 3.5 billion dollars, with tax collections of 81.4 billion dollars.

The 3.5 billion dollar deficit is by no means unique nor is it a record. In 13 of the last 30 years there have been budget deficits as large or larger. The country survived.

So the Kennedy budget for 1962 can be lived with, since the President says taxes will not have to be increased.

The administration is making a big gamble here that the economy is going to grow and that tax receipts will grow with it to help finance increasing costs of education, health, welfare, housing and other programs in the years ahead.

But it is when you get into the real long-range projections of some of these spending programs that potential trouble begins to pile up. The prize example in this case is the Kennedy decision to try to beat the Russians to landing men on the moon and bringing them back alive.

Nobody knows for sure what the cost of this is going to be, over the long haul. The original cost estimate was 15 billion dollars to 20 billion dollars. Kennedy has now raised this figure to 40 billion dollars to nine billion dollars for the first five years. This will make the total cost between 22 and 29 billion dollars.

But James E. Webb, new director of national aeronautics and space administration and a former budget bureau director under President Truman, says this total cost may run 40 billion dollars over the 10-year period, which will be cut to seven if possible.

So the 40 billion dollar question is, does the country get the money, or doesn't it? This is as big a gamble as King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella made when they bet their gold on Columbus being able to find a new trade route to the Indies. He didn't find it, but he discovered America, which was better.

In discussing whether to make the decision to commit the country to this effort for a moon landing not long ago, President Kennedy likened it to the question, "What good is a baby?"

But he went on to say this was not the question. The real question is, "What will the baby become?"

Relating this to the moon shot, it can be asked, "What good is a man on the moon?" It is then argued that this isn't the question.

It is, "What will develop from putting a man on the moon?" President Kennedy made the decision to gamble on that.

World Corners

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Two tough-minded men in Paris and Vienna are demanding this week that the President of the United States make a difficult decision.

That decision concerns Berlin.

It is a question that certainly will be uppermost in the mind of Soviet Premier Khrushchev when he meets with President Kennedy in Vienna. And it must be uppermost, too, in the mind of President Charles de Gaulle, going as it does to the very core of NATO planning for Western Europe.

The western allies are pledged to defend the freedom of West Berlin, by arms if necessary.

The question that never has been clearly resolved is one of timing. At what point and in what manner will it be decided Berlin's safety is threatened?

The question becomes the more pressing in light of U. S. actions in Cuba and Laos wherein, despite clear evidence of communist penetration and despite clear U. S. warnings that such would not be tolerated, a decision was made against the use of U. S. troops.

It may be assumed that only the tough western stand has prevented Khrushchev from swallowing up West Berlin long before this.

On Nov. 27, 1958, he issued his now-famous ultimatum declaring that unless agreement was reached on a unified Germany, he would in six months time declare the Potsdam agreements on Germany "null and void" and would turn all occupational duties over to the East Germans.

Met by stern allied warnings that no such one-sided Soviet action would be recognized, he retreated from that position but has continued to threaten eventual Soviet recognition of a separate East German state which would control the highway, rail and air communications to free West Berlin.

Lately, the Soviets have hinted that such a step might follow the Communist party congress in Moscow next October.

Both sides freely admit the risks would be enormous, and for just the "moment of truth" would be near.

It generally is conceded that an airlift such as broke the communist Berlin blockade of 1948 no longer is practical.

The West has said it never will recognize the authority of a separate East German state.

So then what does it do, if Soviet-supported East Germans attempt to take over the check points on the road to Berlin? Does it attempt to seize the check-points? Does it send troops and tanks crashing across the dividing line at Helmstedt?

What does it do if the East Germans resort merely to harassment, bridges declared unsafe for traffic, rail lines under repair?

These are decisions which NATO planners must take far in advance, and on which De Gaulle will want to know the U.S. attitude.

More than Berlin, also involved is the threat of general war and the destruction visited with equal impartiality by the missiles of friend and foe.

What Does It Mean?
Estate creation implies an evaluation of your assets and measures you can take to protect them.
How Can Life Insurance Help?
By not realizing the full value of your estate, it is possible that you may not be able to pass it along intact to your heirs. Inadequate life insurance coverage has often resulted in forced property liquidations to raise cash for taxes, other final expenses. Your estate should be periodically evaluated and life insurance coverage adjusted to meet changing conditions. Laidlaw and Little Families Gather

On the evening before Memorial day, these four people went to the summer headquarters of the Flat Top Sheep company to decorate the graves of the late James Laidlaw and his wife, Genevieve A. Laidlaw. They are, left to right, David Little and his wife, Jerry Little, and Fred Laidlaw and his wife, Mary Laidlaw. Jerry Little and Fred Laidlaw are children of the late Laidlaws. The Laidlaw and Little names are prominent in the history of the sheep industry in Idaho and the West. (Staff photo-engraving)

This is the Laidlaw grave on top of what is called "The Knoll" above new summer headquarters for the Flat Top Sheep company. The Laidlaw ranch was purchased last fall by Mrs. Mary Brooks, owner of the Flat Top, and combined into one of the biggest ranches in Idaho. The ranch has been generations in the making. John Peavey, right, son of Mrs. Brooks, is a grandson of the late Sen. John Thomas, Gooding. Beside him at the unusual gravesite are his wife, Lucile Peavey, and their son, David. (Staff photo-engraving)

Flat Top Sheep Company Holdings Doubled by Laidlaw Ranch Purchase

MULDOON, June 2 — The Flat Top Sheep company now owns one of Idaho's largest ranches.

When the owner, Mrs. Mary Brooks, Chicago and Muldoon, purchased the Sandy Laidlaw ranch last fall, Flat Top holdings were doubled approximately. Ranch also is now about 75,000 acres — some 115 square miles.

Also "doubled," in a sense, is the significance of the ranch in the perspective of Idaho's livestock history.

A ranch this size, climbing skyward to 10,000 feet at the mountains north of the wet meadows near Fyfedman creek and then dropping tit 5,000 feet on the way to Carey, miles away, takes several generations to put together.

On the evening before Memorial day this fact was illuminated when members of four families, two of which were visiting, came to the summer headquarters of the Flat Top. Summer headquarters are now at the ranch buildings of the recently acquired Laidlaw ranges.

Those visiting to decorate the unusual grave on "The Knoll" where the late Mr. and Mrs. James Laidlaw are buried, were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laidlaw, who own the adjoining ranch at Muldoon, and Mr. and Mrs. David Little, Emmett.

Those on the ranch, working there, were John Peavey, son of Mrs. Brooks, the owner, and Dennis Burke, foreman of the Flat Top.

All of these people are second, even third-generation descendants of famous names in the development of the sheep industry in Idaho and all the west.

David Little is the son of the late Andrew Little, Emmett, who was at one time the largest individual operator of commercial sheep in the United States. He ran up to 100,000 ewes and sent to market as many as 150,000 lambs in one season. He also sheared as much as 650,000 pounds of wool from these sheep.

Fred Laidlaw and Mrs. Little, sister and brother, are two of the four children of the late James Laidlaw, founder of the Panama breed of sheep in the United States and buyer of the first Suffolk stud buck in the west. He used this ranch for his headquarters since the early 1900's, developing a breed of range sheep still used widely in the west and Texas, and insisting before his death that he be buried on "The Knoll." His grave and that of his wife's are protected from the winds on the bare rocky knoll by an enclosure of rocks made into a cemented wall. A spire of rocks juts up from the forward portion of the wall and overlooks the ranch, the fence around the 4,000-acre meadow and the cornerposts he set 40 years ago. The place is made with spring steel wire, and the posts are as big around as the barrel of a horse.

The Flat Top Sheep company itself was put together mostly by the late Sen. John Thomas, Gooding, sheepman and prominent banker. His daughter, Mrs. Brooks, has kept the ranch together, even adding to it before this purchase of the Laidlaw ranch. Now her son, John Peavey, is learning what he has to know, and more.

Peavey, who served three years with the marines, has worked summers on the ranch, always with sheep, and now he is hard at it, even "26 hours a day" familiarizing himself with the additional property, the grasses, and the cattle now being run by the Flat Top Sheep company. He has been on the ranch since March, and recently purchased a home in Rupert.

In these activities he is being helped by Dennis Burke, foreman. Burke is a second-generation manager of the company, just as Mrs. Brooks is the second-generation owner.

His late father, Sam Burke, Rupert, was foreman of the ranch under the late Senator Thomas, and the company has run about 15,000 head of sheep for many years — until this year when no replacement yearling ewes were added to the flock.

Presently the ranch is running six bands of sheep and about 600 head of Angus cattle. The cattle came to the Flat Top this last year when Mrs. Brooks purchased the Laidlaw ranch.

By combining the two ranches into one, and adding cattle to what had been strictly a sheep operation, several problems in range management have arisen.

Burke said that presently the newly acquired Laidlaw ranges are handling about 75 per cent of the cattle and about 25 per cent of the sheep operations. The Flat Top ranges are presently handling about 75 per cent of the sheep and only about 25 per cent of the cattle operations.

Future plans call for a more uniform division, with the sheep getting the steeper ranges on both ranches, those with flowers, milkweeds, and fresh green grass, while the cattle get the coarser grasses and the lower ranges.

Burke is also plowing out about 500 acres of brushland each year and putting it into barley for two years and then seeding it down with adapted varieties of grass and Ladak alfalfa.

This means the company raises about 1,000 acres of barley per year in an area generally considered to be in a 12-to 14-inch rainbelt.

Management problems on a ranch this size are bound to be intense, especially the first years as the cattle are worked in with the sheep operations.

The ranch at the longest distance is 20 miles apart, and 18 miles at the widest.

It encompasses the drainage of the south fork of Muldoon creek, the western reach of Little Wood river and the lower half of Little Fish creek. There is as much as 16 miles of fence around one meadow, and over 100 miles of fence around the entire range.

It includes also such places as far apart as Sawmill canyon, Dugway, Nigger Head, High Five canyon, Black Nose and Sawmill canyon.

It owns all the water rights in Friedman creek, Campbell reservoir, has 700 acre-feet in the Carey reservoir (which lays within the Flat Top property, and also has 175 inches of decreed water rights out of the Little Wood river.

The ranch also employs a steady work force of about 20 men — sheep herders, cowboys, irrigators and mechanics.

Labor being an acute problem these days, it is to the credit of the Flat Top Sheep company that some of its personnel have worked for it for over 20 years.

Charles McParren has never missed a payday since 1941 and works a band of sheep with Paul (Dutch) Tellschow, who has worked for the Flat Top for even a longer time.

Frank Garcia has been with the company for about 20 years, and always herds the lead band of singles.

Garcia also is the shed boss at lambing time in winter headquarters near Rupert.

Wilbert (Bill) Miller, Rupert, has been the straw boss of the outfit since the early '40s, and Joe Ruzzek, 72, who herds only on foot and never rides a saddle horse, is another long-time employe.

The late Joe Moran, known to many people in Twin Falls, was another who worked for the company for more than a half dozen years. Moran was found dead under a tree, after a two-day search about two years ago.

Future plans for the large spread include increasing the cow herd to about 1,000 head and cutting back some on the sheep operation. These plans, as both Peavey and Burke say, are highly flexible until the carrying capacities of the ranges are tested more severely.

Right now, even in this dry year, it seems that the grass is growing green everywhere, under the sagebrush, on hilltops, between rocks and in draws, and that the carrying capacity should be much higher than anticipated.

However, it is much better to build the herds up to the carrying capacities of the range rather than to have to cut down if the capacities have been overestimated.

In an effort to try to cheapen the cost of raising the cattle, the present managers are going to trail some of the yearling heifers across the desert to Rupert winter headquarters at the end of this season. About 1,500 acres of land has been purchased on this desert out of Minidoka to be used as a bedding ground and also as an interim feeding area on the trek from Muldoon to Rupert.

Sheep make this trek each year, but it will be the first time for the black cattle.

Murtaugh Rancher Reports Initial Sale of Range Lambs

MURTAUGH, June 2 — Kent (Bud) Davis, sheep foreman for Glenn Briggs, Murtaugh, reports that he sold a band of range lambs last week for $17.40 to Del Dickensen, Twin Falls, representative for John Clay and company.

So far as is known, these were the first range lambs sold to market this season.

Davis said these lambs, averaging slightly more than 100 pounds have been out on the Berger seeding, south of Twin Falls, since April 7. Last year, Davis kept some lambs back in the feedlot, putting them on concentrate pellets, but they weren't ready then until June 4 and averaged only 97 pounds.

Just why the lambs did better earlier this year on grass Davis wouldn't say for sure. However, he and other sheepmen have observed in past years that when the grass is short on account of drought, the protein content of the grass seems to be higher for a while than when it grows tall on account of plenty of rain.

The lambs were loaded at Buhl.

More than 17 species of crabgrass are to be found in the United States.

Three Range Tours Are Slated for Valley Areas

Three major range tours have been scheduled in Magic Valley for June. Each of these will highlight solutions to problems that could be situated on the other tours.

The first of these will be held June 9 and will cover the range, forest and watersheds of the Wood river and south Boise river areas.

Buses, at the Challenger Inn, Sun Valley, will transport interested farmers, ranchers, and participants from the three-day meet of the public lands committee, National Association of Soil Conservation districts. The meet is being held at Sun Valley June 8-10.

Native grasses, a 185,000 gallon stock-pound and range management procedures will be spotlighted on the tour.

The second range tour will be conducted June 14 at the Point Springs seeding near Malta to show what crested wheatgrass can do for livestock range and also to explain new ideas about grazing.

Assembly for the tour is 10 a.m. at Malta. It is sponsored by the American Society of Range management and the Idaho Cattlemen's association. Lee Sharp, assistant professor of range management, University of Idaho, will present research data on grazing beef cattle under different conditions.

The third tour will be sponsored June 21 by the Twin Falls soil conservation district. This tour will cover grass seed production, grass management, stock ponds and will include areas south of Twin Falls south into Nevada.

Guest speakers will be Fallini and A. Hafenrichter, Portland, soil conservation service, who is one of the world authorities on range grasses.

Smaller Fresh Vegetable Supply for Spring Noted

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI) — Supplies of fresh vegetables will be moderately to substantially smaller this spring than last, and probably less than the 1950-59 average, the department said.

Cold, wet weather caused some damage and retarded growth of spring crops in the Southeast. Frost on March 10-11 hit crops in the everglades section of Florida, and high winds in early March caused some damage to Texas vegetables. The growing season in California and Arizona, however, was generally favorable. Early supplies from these areas tended to compensate to some extent for delayed harvest in the southeast.

The department said early supplies of spring vegetables will pick up rapidly during the next few weeks as additional areas begin harvesting in volume.

If the patterns of harvesting is more normal than last year, when harvesting in many areas was seriously delayed, both farm and retail prices during the next four to six weeks may average somewhat below the high levels of a year earlier, the department said.

Idaho's Income From Beef Sales Is Lower Than 1959

WASHINGTON, June 2—Idaho farmers received 96 million dollars from the sale of beef last year, compared to 110 million dollars in 1960, the U. S. department of agriculture reports. Farm marketing of cattle and calves during 1960 amounted to 496 million pounds.

Beef brought Idaho producers the highest figure in the state's history in 1959. This was also the nation's record meat production year, with 51.3 billion pounds in live weight coming off American farms.

Idaho sheep and lambs totaling 103.1 million pounds brought cash receipts of 16.6 million dollars in 1960.

Hogs marketed during the year weighed 38.8 million pounds and brought 8.7 million dollars in cash receipts to Idaho.

The USDA also reported that 1.4 million head of cattle and calves were on hand in Idaho on Jan. 1, 1960.

Hurts as People Swine Industry Turning to Beef

MADISON, Wis., June 2 (UPI)—Livestock economists at midwest colleges and universities say the swine industry is hurting because people are "living too high on the hog."

Since the 1940's there has been a declining demand for pork as fatter pocketbooks have shifted people's taste to beef, according to a study released today by the economists.

University of Wisconsin market economist Robert Reierson, who participated in the study, said vegetable oils also have replaced the demand for lard to a large extent.

Only 1.8 cents of the consumer's dollar now is spent for pork, compared with 2.6 cents 10 years ago, Reierson said. Beef consumption exceeded pork in the 1950's for the first time.

The result has been lowered prices for pork and reduced production, he said.

Reierson said the swine industry has a chance to increase hog consumption by producing pork with more meat on it through better breeding. He said consumers will buy "meatier" pork.

Plans Speech

SUN VALLEY, June 2 — Gooding county Sen. Don G. Fredericksen, director at large of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, will deliver the keynote address at the association's sixth annual public lands summer meeting at Sun Valley June 7-11.

Purpose of the meeting is to review public land use, including grazing, watersheds, recreation, wildlife, forestry and mining. Policies of public land administration agencies will be discussed from the viewpoints of government and users.

Memorial Day Rain Helps Farmers; Most Crops Reported Progressing

The rain that fell Memorial day was beneficial throughout Magic Valley.

Farmers with some dry land grains north of Carey or south of Twin Falls or east in Cassia county can expect the rain dropped enough moisture to give the grains a good "shot."

Hay farmers, providing their alfalfa fields weren't dry, also benefited, since a good rain not too long after irrigation will help hold the moisture for many days.

The drought is getting more intense the closer July approaches and a good rain will help the grass on the ranges and help hold down forest fires, which may be worse this year than they were last. And last year was reported as the West's worst fire season in 30 years.

The amount of alfalfa hay sold in Magic Valley in 1959, according to U.S. census figures, was about 400,000 tons. Gooding, Lincoln and Blaine counties accounted for 43,000 tons of this amount sold.

Farms year, however, with the water supplies short in many parts of the counties, it is hard to visualize that farmers will raise this tonnage of hay, let alone sell it off their farms.

Surprisingly so for the hay fields around Bellevue, Carey and Richfield—look considerably tall and green. Farmers flood irrigate many of these fields, and so far they apparently are using water out of the streams and reservoirs like its now or never.

A good first crop of hay, however, should be expected in many areas of the valley that won't have enough water to raise a second crop.

Elsewhere around the valley, what with warm growing weather, corn is jumping almost inches each day, sugar beets are showing height to the leaves and on many fields of mixed grain the barley is heading.

It has also been excellent bean planting time, hot and moist, and some fields are showing pale green rows where a few days ago none showed.

The only problem the rain has created, and it is a minor problem at this time, is that small weeds are sprouting everywhere. It is too moist to harrow these weeds, and if the rain keeps falling it will take a lot of dirt to cover them in the bean and corn rows.

But weeds or no, the country can use more rain.

Along Fences And Canals

By SAM ROSEN

Bally Pyrch, Carey farmer, says changing water every three hours is quite a chore. Farmers in that area flood irrigate between dikes, something farmers on heavier soils can't do.

Dave Little trails his large herd of cattle from Emmett to McCall each season and saves buying hay.

Bill Wiseman and Fred Thompson, Burley Livestock company, were justly proud of the remodeling of the front office, lobby, back office and cafeteria. At the open house Sunday, visitors came from throughout the area, and probably as many people appeared from Twin Falls as from Cassia county.

Last week, Austin Woodworth, Burley, who dry farms in Hagar and is also an Arbon creek, was saying the winter wheat needed a good rain. Perhaps he has it now. His next worry is the "traditional June 10 frost."

Ted Diehl, Buhl, reports he has sold another feedmill to a Blackfoot rancher. This week he also entertained an Arizona horseman who wore a "Buffalo Bill" mustache and goatee, all silver.

A strip of alfalfa already has been mowed on the highway near Shoshone.

Cecil Stanger, Hansen, is using plastic lining on a ditch. It is 10 feet wide and lays across the ditch banks.

Idaho Power company has a crew out in the country cutting branches off trees where these have grown out into the power lines to the farm house.

F. V. Morrison, Murtaugh, brought some information to the Times-News arguing against farm controls.

Radioactivity Analysis by AEC Shows North Side Underground Water Okay

IDAHO FALLS, June 2—Analysis of north side underground water for radioactivity "seepline" from the national reactor testing station, situated on top of the lost river underground reservoir between Arco and Idaho Falls, shows radiation in the water either was below the level that could be detected by monitoring devices or below the safe guide levels established by national committee on radiation protection.

An official release from the health and safety division, U.S. atomic energy commission, points out that off-site milk also was sampled, as were underground waters, jackrabbit bones, air and locations along highways traversing the NRTS.

In all cases, radioactivity was below minimum standards established by national scientists.

Jackrabbits were routinely checked, from selected locations of their desert habitat around the outside of the NRTS and also from more distant agricultural areas, such as Aberdeen and Shoshone. The bones of these animals were analyzed for strontium 90.

Though the biological system of the rabbit and its habits aren't comparable to man, the use of the jackrabbit has value, the report said, because it consumes large quantities of vegetation through grazing and makes detection of strontium 90 much simpler.

During the last quarter of 1959 and the first three-quarters of 1960, 112 jackrabbits were collected. Analysis of their bones revealed low levels of strontium 90. The conclusion reached was that the NRTS didn't contribute any more radioactivity to the rabbits than any other sources.

Almost 800 samples were collected from dairy cows in the farming area down-wind from the NRTS. All the samples showed radioactivity was below minimum guide standards.

The network of monitoring stations encompasses approximately 9,000 square miles, according to the Idaho Falls report. The purpose is to discover the minimum of radioactivity, its origin and its effect on environment.

During 1960, 151 samples were collected bimonthly from 29 off-site underground water sources that might be supplied from the Lost river underground reservoir. Many of these sources were in Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln and Minidoka counties.

Analysis of the samplings proved the levels of radioactivity were down. Even on-site underground water that was collected from production wells near plant sites at the NRTS were mostly below analytical detection levels. Monitors took 779 samples from 19 locations at the site. In a few cases levels of radioactivity were slightly higher than from samples taken off the site, but even these were below minimum safety levels.

Air samplings also proved airborne radioactive particles were within the confines of safety.

Alaskan Farmers Still Furnish Less Than 10 Per Cent of Needs in State

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI)—Agricultural production is growing rapidly in Alaska, but on agriculture department study reports that the state's farmers supply less than 10 per cent of the food consumed there.

Receipts from the sale of Alaska farm products totaled 3.5 million dollars in 1959. This was less than five per cent of the revenue from the fishing industry, Alaska's largest private source of income. The value of farm products sold, however, doubled between 1949 and 1959.

Cropland in Alaska totaled about 23,000 acres in 1959, nearly double the acreage in 1949 and 14,292 acres of crops were harvested in 1959. There were only 6,450 harvested acres in 1949.

There were 367 farms in Alaska in 1960. About half of these were parttime farms, with the operators working 100 or more days off the farm. The average value of land and buildings per farm was about $43,000 in 1960, up from $12,500 in 1950. The department said most Alaskan farms operated by full-time farmers have electricity, tractors and other equipment and conveniences.

The study indicated that in some areas of Alaska, it is cheaper to import even perishable products than to produce them locally. Milk, potatoes, eggs, and fresh vegetables are Alaska's principal farm products. Farmers generally market their products jointly through a farmer's cooperative or individually, selling directly to retailers and consumers.

There are few assemblers, processors and other dealers in locally grown farm products. Generally, products are not shipped far from the producing area. Extra shipping costs incurred by all imported foods make retail food prices higher in Alaska than in other states. Locally produced food products also bring relatively high prices. Farmers' costs also are higher than those of farmers in other states.

Solon Tells Unit About Reseeding Idaho Desert

WASHINGTON, June 2 (Special)—About 112,500 acres of Idaho desert land has been reseeded to grass under the beet leafhopper program the past three years, according to statements made before the senate appropriations committee for the department of the interior.

A copy of part of the transcript was sent to the Times-News by Sen. Henry Dworshak, R., Ida., a member of the senate committee.

The cost for reseeding these breeding areas of the curly top insect has been $630,000 at the federal level. The budget request for this year is $150,000.

For the entire halogeton program; involving several western states, about $600,000 has been requested for 1962. The worst infestations are in the area where Utah, Nevada and Idaho converge.

New outbreaks occur usually around the old infestations. It was pointed out at the hearings that one of the almost unavoidable sources of infestation has been seed carried in construction equipment used on highway construction. Northern Nevada is infested along highways, as well as the area south of Malta heading toward Utah.

Grass seedings in many of these areas, when firmly established, have held the poisonous plant down and often crowded it out.

Accuracy for Crop Reports Being Sought

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI)—The agriculture department is trying to increase the accuracy of its vitally important crop reports—reports which influence the spending of billions of dollars on farm commodities.

The crop report service depends heavily on monthly reports compiled by some 100,000 farmers. These farmers provide information on crop plantings and progress in their areas.

These reports are coordinated at state levels, with a state statistician making adjustments in line with past production and level of efficiency of the farmer-reporters. State figures are sent to Washington where the crop board in turn makes adjustments to eliminate previous state tendencies to overestimate production.

Under a system to be tried out for the first time this year, the board will send trained technicians to interview farmers and to take actual looks at the crops. Pilot plots will be followed through the growing to the harvesting of each.

This year the supplemental work of the technicians will be limited to cotton and corn. Work begins this month in 12 southern, 12 corn belt and four western states.

These technicians will make personal contacts with 13,500 farmers in 8,700 different areas selected at random.

More Water Used From Goose Creek Reservoir

OAKLEY, June 2 — Though less water is flowing into Goose Creek reservoir this year than in 1960 and the acre-feet total of water is down considerably, farmers have had to use more water so far this season.

According to information furnished by Mrs. Olga Burch, secretary, farmers in the Oakley reservoir district had used about 2,800 acre-feet of water in 1960 by this time, as compared to 3,000 acre-feet this season.

The reservoir presently has about 11,500 acre-feet of water compared to 16,780 acre-feet at this time in 1960.

Inflow as of May 29, 1960, was 61 second-feet. This year it is only 44 second-feet.

Available per share this year is 5.35 inches as compared to 7.6 inches in 1960.

Secretary Confident of Getting Good Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman is "confident" that the administration will get a farm bill from congress "that meets our objectives."

Freeman said he expected congress to make some changes in the pending omnibus farm bill — "I never get everything I want." He added that in this case he is hopeful of getting most of what he wanted.

The secretary said the administration was not submitting a wheat bill "for the time being." He said department thinking on a wheat bill was "fluid," and that wheat legislation should be "good economically and practical politically."

He said advance payments to farmers participating in the emergency feed grain bill should be "very stimulating" to the national economy. He estimated that the administration's farm program would stimulate farm income by more than one billion dollars.

Freeman was asked if he intended to impose controls on beef cattle, pork, and poultry in the event the farm bill as enacted would give him that power.

"I have no plans to impose controls on anything," Freeman said. He added that programs developing because of the omnibus bill would be run by producers.

A mare may start having foals when she is three years old, but the usual breeding age is four.

Recent Invasion Threat Of Beetles Is Reduced

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI) — The recent threat of an airborne invasion of the United States by a destructive beetle from Europe has been reduced sufficiently to end emergency control measures.

Spraying of all airplanes arriving from Paris at major airports in this country has been discontinued, but planes are being carefully searched and will be sprayed if beetles are found.

This reddish-brown insect is a major European plant pest but is not established in North America. It appeared suddenly in early April on planes arriving at Idlewild International airport, New York.

The beetle resembles the common June bug. It is related to the destructive Japanese beetle and the European chafer. The Japanese beetle costs U.S. farmers and city dwellers at least 10 million dollars annually.

Of the record 4.4 billion bushels of corn produced in the United States last year, 2.6 billion bushels used on farms were grown for feed and seed. Home use, according to the department, accounted for 3.1 million bushels. The value of the 1960 corn production was 4.4 billion dollars. The corn sold was valued at 1.8 billion dollars.

Penalty Noted

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI)— The agriculture department announced this week the penalty of farmers for selling 1961 crop wheat in excess of their federal marketing quotas will be $1.08 a bushel, the same as for the 1960 crop.

The penalty compares with the department's price support rate of $1.79 a bushel.

Feed Grain Program May Hike Next Season Prices

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI) — Agriculture department economists have predicted that the administration's 1961 feed grain program would result in higher feed grain prices next season.

Farmers are taking millions of acres of corn and grain sorghum acreage out of production under the feed grain program. In addition to this acreage cutback, feed grain price supports have been hiked.

Both factors point toward higher prices for feed grains in the marketing year which begins next fall.

The department has been steering away from market price predictions, however, because of another element in the 1961 program —authority under which the department would have power to sell some of its surplus grain into the open market.

The prediction was a general one, it said this:

"Feed grain prices probably will average higher in 1961-62 than for the current feeding year."

Prices for the current year have been, on the average, the lowest since World war II.

Bureau Endorses Plan's Extension

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI) — The American Farm Bureau federation is endorsing a three-year extension of the food-for-peace program.

The Farm Bureau recommended, however, that the program be slowed.

The group also urged congress to reject an administration proposal under which surplus American food would be stored overseas to build reserve stocks for underdeveloped nations.

U.S. Exports of Wheat and Flour are About 41 Per Cent Ahead of 1959-60

WASHINGTON, June 2 (UPI) — The foreign agriculture service (FAS) reports that U.S. wheat and flour exports from July, 1960, through March, 1961, totaled 400 million bushels—about 41 per cent ahead of 1959-60.

Most of the increase was in shipments to Europe for dollars and to Asia under the food-for-peace and surplus disposal programs.

Italy, plagued with unfavorable weather and a poor harvest last season, took 33 million bushels of U.S. wheat during July-March, 1960-61. This compares with half a million bushels the same period a year earlier. Another 15.6 million bushels were exported to Spain, compared with none in July-March 1959-60. An increase of six million bushels was made in shipments to Poland.

More than 24 per cent of U.S. wheat exports in the first nine months of 1960-61 went to India, which took 103.3 million bushels, compared with 77.4 million bushels a year earlier. Substantially larger shipments also went to Japan and Pakistan.

Most of the increase in flour shipments was to Syria and Egypt —27.5 million bushels compared with 14 million in 1959-60. These countries took about 35 per cent of total U.S. exports of flour.

FAS said total exports of U.S. wheat—and flour during fiscal 1960-61 are expected to be substantially above the previous record of 550 million bushels shipped in 1956-57.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Often mothers of teen-age children, those between 13 and 16, usually, are surprised to find that they spend many a free hour visiting a grownup, often elderly friend. This puzzles parents and makes them wonder, a bit anxiously, what it is all about. And sometimes a little jealousy creeps in. That need not be.

These teen-age children have reached the place when they want to ask questions that they cannot ask their parents because they are too close to them and because they know instinctively that their parents are too emotionally concerned to be able to talk freely to them, or they to their parents.

It is for no lack of affection or respect for their parents that the young people make these friends and confidants. It is their need for freedom in expressing feelings for which they often have no words. In a free exchange of talk these feelings are likely to take form and can be expressed in words. One girl asked her elderly friend, after "beating around the bush" to find words, "Do you think fathers like their sons more than they do their daughters?"

In the conversation that followed the girl finally got down to the troubling thought: "But I know when I was born my father was disappointed because I wasn't a boy." "Somebody tell you that? Well, let me tell you that your father thinks that the sun rises and sets in you. Only the other day he was telling me how you got more and more like your mother every day, and how you got a very high mark at term end. Like you? He adores you. You just keep on as you are and you need not fear any lack of affection on your father's side." "Honestly? You think so?" "I know so. Forget all that nonsense. You are too intelligent to have any such idea. Truly a friend in need. How could the child ask her parents such a question. Yet she needed to have it answered.

There is an elderly lady in our village to whom children turn in time of stress. One boy arrives early in the morning to comb his hair. It is already combed to a hair under his mother's careful hand. His hair curls and she likes it so. He doesn't so he goes to his old friend, gets his comb and hurries kept for him. He isn't aware as yet that as it dries it rises again in curls—he gets that good start in the morning and nobody is really hurt.

Children, like their elders, are funny. That's what we enjoy about them; their oddities, their changing ways, their loveableness.

Adult Novel Is Topic of Local Unit's Program

The adult novel was the topic of Mrs. Otto Fowler, program chairman, at a recent meeting of the Twin Falls Writers' league at her home in Kimberly.

Mrs. Fowler read a paper by Helen Hennessy, featured speaker at the Idaho Writers' league conference in Boise.

Publications were reported on by Mrs. Andrew Ash. Mrs. Everett Hager, Mrs. Olive Kelley, Mrs. Elinor Van Houten and Mrs. Bonnie Roberson.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—
Stocks — Higher; spotty improvement.
Bonds—Lower; slow trading.
Cotton — Slightly higher; market dull.
Chicago:
Wheat—Higher; short covering.
Corn—Higher; short covering.
Oats—Mixed; light trade.
Soybeans—Mixed; mostly easier.
Hogs—50 to 75 cents higher; top $18.

NEW YORK, June 2 (UPI)—The stock market steered an even course on drooping volume today as Wall street continued to wait for results of the upcoming Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting.

The generally dull pre-week-end session produced gains for most steels, electronics, food stocks and motion picture issues. Aircrafts were easy and coppers lower, reflecting yesterday's scrap price cup.

Zenith and Texas Instruments moved ahead close to 4 each and IBM around 2 while Varian lost a couple. Twentieth Century-Fox, Paramount and Warner Brothers moved up 2 or more on good earnings. Hershey Chocolate and Singer scored for around 3.

Other strong spots were Diners Club, Corn Products, Cluett Peabody and American Viscose—all up around 2 or so.

In the blue chips, GE, Westinghouse, Ford and General Foods added one or more points. International Nickel was down as much.

Among the weaker items, Houston Lighting and Reliance Manufacturing dropped 2 or more, Atlas Powder, Lockheed, Honolulu Oil and Atlantic Refining one or more.

Volume on the big board today totaled 3,670,000 shares, compared with 3,770,000 yesterday.

125-Pint Quota Set in Drawing

RUPERT, June 2—Rupert residents have been given a quota of 125 pints for the Red Cross blood drawing planned for Monday.

At the last drawing, 75 pints more than the same quota were received, according to Mrs. Ray Burton, county chairman. An additional 17 persons were processed and sent home because of a shortage of containers, she said, and 35 or 40 persons were not even processed.

Plans are being made this time to handle all comers, Mrs. Burton said, between the hours of 2 p. m. and 6 p. m. at the Civic building.

Since the February drawing, Mrs. Burton reported, 78 pints of blood have been given through the Minidoka Memorial hospital, and 38 pints given to local persons at other hospital. In addition to this amount, the equivalent of 77 pints of whole blood has been used by local residents in the form of gamma globulin and other blood fractions.

During the past year, residents of the county have donated a total of 328 pints.

According to Mrs. Burton, county residents have used 193 pints of blood since February, which is just seven pints less than the 200 pints collected.

Camas Phone Company Has New Owners

FAIRFIELD, June 2—The Camas County Telephone company began operating the local exchange Thursday morning. Grid Rowles, McCall, is the new manager with Dean Jewett as lineman and repairman.

Terri Rowles, McCall, and Mrs. Charles Waterbury are the day operators with Cheryl Jones and Peggy Harrison as relief operators. The exchange will be on a 24-hour schedule and the former owners, Mr. and Mrs. Alph Baldwin, will have the night shift.

Harry Bean, Boise, is the new owner. He is also owner of the Gem State Telephone company which operates exchanges at McCall, Cascade, Donnelly, New Meadows, Riggins and also some private lines in that area. He has been in the telephone business for about 40 years.

The new company recently purchased some lots across from the Fairfield ranger station and construction on a new building is planned immediately. The new building will be of cinderblock construction and will house the exchange and also living quarters for the new manager.

Plans are to complete the building within a month and workers will be brought from McCall to construct it after the foundation is laid. Future plans call for the reconstruction of the entire system with the eventual installation of a dial system.

Rowles has moved his trailer house to one of the lots and will live in it during the construction of the building.

The new company is distributing telephone directories today, the first that this community has had in more than 20 years. Until Thursday calls were made by the name of the person instead of a number.

Grains

CHICAGO, June 2 (UPI)—Soybeans fell off, but other grains were moderately active and firm today on the Chicago board of trade.

Wheat closed up ⅜ to 1⅛, corn up ⅛ to ⅝, oats off ⅛ to up ⅛, rye up ⅛ to ⅝, soybeans off 1 to up ⅛ and drummed lard off 5 to 25 points.

Feed grains were in active demand following the latest report on farm compliance. The USDA announced farmers have signed up more than 24 per cent of their acreage for soil conservation under the 1961 program.

Wheat futures enjoyed buying based on a large pending export business. Little hedge or other selling pressure appeared. Some buying came on news of rain in the Southwest, which would slow harvesting.

Deferred contracts showed the most strength in corn. The government report showed about 19,031,000 acres of corn may be diverted. Northwest brokers sold December, and large amounts of May and March were spread at 2½ cents difference.

Oats were quiet and mostly firm. An industry bought July and sold March. Late selling steadied the market.

Rye futures also firmed after opening steady. Dealings were slow and without feature.

July soybeans ran into heavy liquidation early in the session. The future rose on a reported sale of oil to Israel only to decline on new profit-taking. New crops eased under the weight of an expected large 1961 crop.

Gem Pollution Problem Eyed By Spud Men

BOISE, June 2 (AP)—Representatives of Idaho potato processing industry met here yesterday to discuss the problem of pollution caused by the discharge of potato wastes into Gem state streams and rivers.

Miles Willard, director of research for Rogers Brothers company, Idaho Falls, said the pollution problem has become critical because of the rapid growth of the processing industry in Idaho.

Dr. T. O. Carver, state health administrator, met with the processors committee to explain the position of the state board of health.

Dr. Carver said the board has ordered the potato processing industry to submit a plan for solving the problem to the state health department by July 1.

The meeting Thursday was attended by 12 representatives of nine major processing firms.

Prof. M. E. Jackson of the University of Idaho chemical engineering department was named as a special consultant to aid the processors.

Firm in Filer Given Money Held in Trust

District Judge Theron W. Ward, in a judgment recorded Thursday, granted Thomas Leno and Lyle Malone, owners of the Leno and Malone construction company, Filer, possession of a disputed $11,845.50 being held in trust by the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company pending the outcome of the civil action.

The money was paid to the Dale Aslett Sand and Gravel company by the U.S. government for construction work done on levees at Jackson Hole, Wyo.

Leno and Malone construction company had subcontracted the work to the sand and gravel company.

The money was placed in trust after the Northwest Credit corporation charged it rightfully belonged to them for payment of a loan contracted by the sand and gravel company.

Leno and Malone Construction company, represented by Kramer and Walker, Twin Falls law firm, filed suit against Northwest credit charging the money rightfully belonged to the sand and gravel company.

Northwest Credit, represented by Rayborn, Rayborn, Rayborn and Webb, Twin Falls law firm, counter-sued, maintaining the money was rightfully theirs for payment of the loan.

In the judgment, Judge Ward stated the Northwest Credit corporation has no claim to the money.

Judge Ward took the action under advisement following the trial held April 25.

Warmer weather was indicated for southern California and the north Atlantic coast with chilling in the northeast plains, Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the Rockies states.

Decision Wanted On Water Rights

BOISE, June 2 (AP)—State reclamation engineer George Carter expressed the hope Monday that the current irrigation water shortage in some areas of southern Idaho may lead to a better definition of ground water rights.

The shortage of surface water is leading to increased drilling of irrigation wells, particularly in the Big Lost river area of south central Idaho, Carter said.

"There has never been a court decree on the matter of ground water rights," Carter said. "I'd like to see one, just to clarify the situation."

Cowboys Break Loose for 4 Runs in Eighth to Down Great Falls Electrics 4-1

GREAT FALLS, June 2 (AP)—The Magic Valley Cowboys broke loose for four runs in the eighth inning Thursday night to defeat Great Falls 4-1. The Electrics scored their lone tally in the seventh when Jay Arnett singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on a single by Bill Bevels. The Cowboys quickly loaded the bases in the eighth on John Weghorn's double, a single by Richie Allen and Bob Sanders' grounder which was turned into an error. Weghorn scored on Vic Baron's long fly to left in a hotly-disputed play at the plate. John Shockley singled scoring Allen. Joe Stinnett was intentionally walked to load the sacks and Gary Cukendall hit a bloooper single for another tally, leaving the bases loaded.

Al Phillips was booted out of the game for Twin Falls when he protested a called second strike on himself on long and too loudly in the sixth inning. Jim Boring, also of Twin Falls, was taken from the game in the fifth when he hurt his ankle on a slide into second base.

Billings Gets 6-to-1 Victory Over Russets

BILLINGS, Mont., June 2 (AP)—Billings capitalized on Idaho Falls' errors Thursday night and defeated the Russets 6-1.

Idaho Falls got its only run in the eighth when it got its second hit off pitcher Connie Newman, who struck out eight in winning the game. The score came on three singles and a walk.

Jerry Flanagan smashed a solo homer for the winners in the second inning.

Billings added another in the sixth on two errors. They scored four more in the eighth when Bobby Dews singled and was sacrificed to second by Bee Lindsey who was safe on an error. Otto Knowles was safe on another error that scored Dews and Lindsey.

Chris Krug walked and Flanagan was safe on a fielders' choice that had Knowles out at home. Lowell Townsend tripled scoring Krug and Flanagan.

But Townsend was out trying to stretch the blow into an inside the park homerun.

Cards Knock Giants Out of League Lead

By The Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals came close to blowing a six-run lead but beat San Francisco 7-6 Thursday and knocked the Giants out of the national league lead for the first time since May 2. The Cards chased Giant starter Mike McCormick in the fifth inning when they collected five runs on five singles and a walk. McCormick was the loser and his record now is 5-4.

The Giants got 13 hits off Cardinal starter Ernie Broglio and Lindy McDaniel but left eight runners on base. Broglio (5-5), the winner, allowed 10 hits. McDaniel relieved him in the seventh.

The Cardinals still had a 7-4 lead when the Giants came up in the ninth. Felipe Alou led off with his sixth homer of the season. After McDaniel got rid of Jim Davenport and Willie Mays, Willie McCovey smashed his seventh homerun of the season.

McDaniel got two strikes on Orlando Cepeda but the second strike was a long foul that just missed being a homer. Cardinal manager Solly Hemus brought in Al Cicotte who made Cepeda ground out to end the game.

Homeruns, two by Smoky Burgess and one by Dick Groat, powered the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8-2 victory over Milwaukee lit a game shortened to seven innings by rain.

Southpaw Harvey Haddix giving up eight hits, held the Braves scoreless after issuing a pair of runs in the first. He struck out seven and walked two in earning his fourth victory against one defeat.

Lew Burdette was Milwaukee's starting pitcher and gave up five of the Pirates' runs. Charged with the loss, he is now 4-4.

Don Zimmer and George Altman clouted homers and each drove in three runs as the Chicago Cubs extended their winning streak to four games by trouncing the Philadelphia Phillies 10-3.

Glen Hobbie posted his third victory in the eight decisions while holding the Phillies to six scattered hits. Two of the runs were unearned after Ron Santo booted Ken Walters' grounder in the fifth inning. Hobbie struck out eight and issued two walks.

Bosox Score Early, Beat Yankees 7-5

By the Associated Press

Slugger Vic Wertz gave Boston a sizeable early lead but the Red Sox barely edged New York 7-5 Thursday in the face of late Yankee power sparked by Bill Skowron's two homeruns.

The contest was undecided until right fielder Jackie Jensen went to the bullpen wall to haul in pinch hitter Elston Howard's drive for the final out.

New York scored four times and collected half of their 14 hits over the last two innings.

Skowron's ninth homer of the season was the first of winner Bill Monbouquette's 76 innings and his 10th came in the final inning with a teammate on base.

The latter blow pulled the New Yorkers within two runs. Catcher John Blanchard greeted Tracy Stallard, the third Sox pitcher, with a double. But the Red Sox survived when Bobby Richardson lined out before Howard ended it.

Ailing Gene Woodling socked a two-run, pinchhit double after two outs in the ninth inning—the only hit of a three-run inning—as the Washington Senators nipped the Los Angeles Angels 3-2.

Woodling, out of the starting lineup for two weeks with a knee injury, broke up the game after the only other run had been scored on two walks, a passed ball and a fly.

A downpour and hailstorm forced postponement of the Detroit-Kansas City game with the score tied 4-4 and the Tigers batting in the eighth inning.

The game will be replayed from the beginning the night of July 17.

The Tigers had a runner at first and no one out when the thundershowers struck. Umpires waited 70 minutes before calling the game.

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, reeling in the American league cellar, Thursday purchased former Chicago Cub pitching star Warren Hacker from Chattanooga of the Southern association.

Carry Back Set for Try at Triple Crown

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—The field of the 93rd Belmont stakes jumped to seven Thursday, and an eighth owner was contemplating his chance of blocking Carry Back's headlong charge toward a sweep of horse racing's coveted triple crown. The unexpected increase came when owner Jacob Shier gave trainer Harold Young the okay to enter Sherluck, who finished fifth in the Kentucky derby and Preakness.

Carry Back, who won the derby and then the Preakness for Mrs. Katherine Price, Miami, Fla., to take the first two legs of the pie triple for 3-year-olds, is expected to rule an odds-on choice to complete the grand slam Saturday at Belmont park.

Post time is 3:50 p.m. (EST) with television and radio (CBS) starting at 3:30 p.m.

Ambiopoise is the fly in the ointment. Owner Robert Lehman and trainer Tom Waller are uncertain whether to enter the colt who won the Jersey derby Tuesday at Garden State park.

Waller said he planned to gallop Ambiopoise Friday before the entries close at $250 per horse. Then he'll confer with Lehman, a Wall Street investment banker.

Others in the probable field are the King Ranch's Bal Musette, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Dr. Miller, Ogden Phipps' Hitting Away, the Alberta Ranches' Flutterby and Mrs. R. I. Dotter's Guadalcanal.

All will carry 126 pounds in the $125,000-added race, longest of the triple crown series at one and one-half miles.

Louis Backs Anti-Rackets Boxing Probe

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Joe Louis Thursday called for a quick knyo of hoodlums and racketeers in boxing.

With the placidity that marked his long boxing career, the ex-heavyweight champ told the senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee that fighters have been imposed upon by the criminal element.

Managers and promoters get backing from the underworld, he added.

The old "Brown Bomber" was among several witnesses testifying in support of legislation to place professional boxing under a powerful federal commissioner.

Louis said the bill, sponsored in the senate by Sens. Estes Kefauver, D., Tenn., and Clair Engle, D., Calif., "will take fighters from gangsters and hoodlums."

Rep. William F. Ryan, D., N.Y., sponsor of an identical bill in the house, was the leadoff witness.

Ryan, who used to be an assistant to Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan in New York, said in that job he became familiar with the depredations of professional boxing by organized crime.

"These organized racketeers included Frankie Carbo, Anthony Carollo, also known as Tony Ducks, James Plunkett, also known as Jimmy Doyle, and the notorious Dio brothers, Johnny and Tom," Ryan said.

Incidentally, these same racketeers were prominent in investigations I conducted into labor extortion and syndicated gambling," Louis, 47, was asked by Kefauver:

"Aren't boxers being imposed upon by the criminal element?"

"No question about it that boxers have been taken advantage of," Louis replied."

Snead, Demaret Breeze To Lead in Canada Cup

DORADO BEACH, Puerto Rico, June 2 (AP)—Uncle Sam's "century club," Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret, breezed into the first-round lead in the ninth Canada Cup International golf competition Thursday in a manner as airy as the trade winds sweeping the plush Dorado Beach course.

Sam and Jimmy, whose ages total 100 years, put together rounds of 67 and 73 that gave the defending champion United States a huge lead in the two-man team competition with a 140 total for the day. Snead's 5-under-par 67 put him just as safely on top in the race for the individual championship.

The strong Australian team, pretournament favorite, moved into second place with a 143 total on a 69 by Peter Thomson, four-time winner of the British Open championship, and 74 by Kel Nagle, reigning British Open champion. Canada's Al Balding and Ben Arda of the Philippines also had 69s, and tied Thomson for second in the individual race.

Par for the 7,115-yard Dorado Beach course on the shores of the Caribbean is 36-36—72 and few of the 66-man field could beat it.

At 71 were Dave Thomas, Wales, Dan Panton, Scotland, and a surprising ex-saddle from Egypt, Mohammed Said Moussa.

In the team event Wales was third with 144 and the Philippines fourth with 145. Egypt, Argentina, and Colombia had 146 totals and Mexico, China, Ireland, Scotland and Canada had 147s.

Three more rounds must be played before the team and individual titles are decided in this 33-nation championship.

A's Trade Tuttle For Bertoia, Giel

DETROIT, June 2 (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics Thursday traded veteran center fielder Bill Tuttle to the Minnesota Twins for infielder Reno Bertoia and relief pitcher Paul Giel.

It was a straight player deal with no cash involved.

"We need strength in the infield and we need relief pitching, and besides that, the players we are getting are younger," said Athletics Manager Joe Gordon.

Tuttle, 31, has hit .263 in 25 games; Bertoia, 26, batted .212 in 35 games and Giel, 29, has a 1-0 record in 12 games with all his work in relief.

Bob Newhart Is Planning Movies, TV

HOLLYWOOD, June 2 (AP)—The fertile mind of Bob Newhart will be buttoned down to records and concerts no more.

The brilliant young humorist from Chicago is starting his first movie this week. And he and his interlocking corporations are preparing the debut of his own TV show next season.

"I'm the guy who got started poking fun at corporations," he observed, "and now I'm president of some."

He's making his movie bow in "Hell Is for Heroes," in which he will help Steve McQueen, Bobby Darin, Nick Adams, Fess Parker and others win the war. His character will be strictly Newhartian.

"I play a clerk who is delivering some typewriters to headquarters," Bob said. "I get lost and end up at the front, where I'm pressed into duty. I'll have some comedy scenes, but the attitude and style wouldn't stop the plot for me to go into one of my routines. That's the way I want it."

The picture was delayed a week, much to his delight. Newhart, who likes to recall the bad old days, observed: "I was paid $2,500 to play golf for a week. That was $1,100 more than my total earnings in 1958."

His income will continue to mushroom as he embarks next fall on his TV venture. He describes it as a variety half-hour, as opposed to a situation comedy.

Their Education Ideas Conflict

Edward G. Robinson, right, and Billy Gray play father and son in "The Drop Out," a story of a conflict of ideas on education between two generations, on "The General Electric Theater" Sunday, June 11 on the CBS television network. (Staff engraving)

He Reads His Fan Mail and Uses Advice

HOLLYWOOD,—June—2—Art James not only reads his fan mail, but even does what viewers tell him to do.

Since his new NBC-TV network series "Say When" premiered in January the handsome host has received hundreds of letters from viewers who thought he wasn't wearing the right kind of shirt collars.

The changes suggested in his mail struck Art as valid because a few short years ago he lost a $1,000-a-week commercial account because of his television "image."

"It was back in 1958," Art remembered. "I had come to New York from Detroit to work as the announcer on NBC-TV's 'Down-tration' show and had also landed a job delivering commercials for a company. But as soon as I finished my first TV commercial, I suspected the sponsor had doubts about me.

"With this experience behind me, I realized the folks who were watching me on 'Say When' had a point, especially since all the letters said the same thing — I shouldn't wear collar bars. They said it gave me a pinched look and made my collars look too high."

Bowing to his viewers' wishes, Art now wears regular shirts and likes them better himself. "I feel more comfortable knowing my audience approves," he says.

HIS AND HER'S

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Roger Mavericks' Moore and his wife, singer Dorothy Squires, now have "His" and "Hers" pianos in their newly remodeled apartment.

'Gunsmoke' Show Will End June 18

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—After all these years, CBS-radio will quietly discontinue, on June 18, its "Gunsmoke," the voice-only parent of the popular TV series.

It will be replaced by "Suspense," which after an 18-year existence on the network was discontinued last fall.

The radio show was probably a victim of the TV show's popularity. This fall the televised program will be expanded to an hour's length and re-named "The Big Half-hour shows will also be shown weekly under the title of "Marshal Dillon."

TV Shorts

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Helen O'Connell, the blonde singer who was on the Dave Garroway show for so long, starts work June 12 as hostess on the NBC "Here's Hollywood" program, replacing Joanne Jordan.

The Crosby boys, Philip, Dennis and Lindsay, will be the first guests on "Person to Person" when it returns for a summer run on June 23.

Probably because Lucille Ball has been in poor health during much of the season, plans to make "Lucy Goes to Broadway" during the summer have been abandoned.

Stars Portray Aerialists in Film

Cliff Robertson, on elephant at left, and Carol Christensen, on elephant at right, play aerialist members of a famous circus family dominated by a sadistic father in "The Big Show." The film also stars Esther Williams, Nehemia Persoff and Robert Vaughn. (Staff engraving)

Learning to Ride Horse Was Just Another Challenge Met

HOLLYWOOD, June 2 (UP)—It's not often that a movie actor gets applause from his fellow performers at the end of a scene.

That happened to Andy Griffith out at the Fox ranch in the Malibu mountains. And all he did was gallop a horse up to the camera.

The others on the "Star in the West" set knew what acting this entailed. For although Andy has the look and sound of a fellow who fits the prairie, his acquaintance with horses has been nil until this movie.

Andy slipped off his steed and came walking over. "That's the most comic performance I ever give," he said. "I was supposed to wave my arm but I was afraid to raise it too high or I might fall off the horse."

It was another of a long series of challenges he has met. Despite that beer-sounding drawl, he's not against challenges nor is he allergic to hard work. He proved that by going directly from a full TV season into "Star in the West." He'll take a four-week breather, then jump into another TV season.

"I'm learnin' all the time," he said.

Andy started learning his trade back in North Carolina, where he did skits at community affairs. One of them was a rube's description of a football game, and it clicked as a record.

"My managers told me to go out in night clubs and learn how to entertain people, so I did," Andy recalled.

Then came the exacting work of a Broadway play, "No Time for Sergeants," which he had previously done on TV. He later made it into a movie, scoring hits in all three mediums.

No Comment

NEW YORK, June 2 (UP)—NBC brass still has no comment to make on Dave Garroway's request to be relieved of his "Today Show" chores.

There is much speculation however that John Daly, newscaster and "What's My Line?" M.C., will be asked to take over the spot.

New Actress Has Role in Circus Film

HOLLYWOOD, June 2 (UP)—One of Hollywood's fastest rising young stars, Carol Christensen, brunette charmer who parlayed a bowling avocation into an acting career, is featured as the trapeze-flying youngest member of a celebrated performing family in the 20th Century-Fox circus spectacle "The Big Show," starring Esther Williams, Cliff Robertson and David Nelson.

Carol plays the daughter of a sadistic and power-seeking circus entrepreneur whose aim is to keep his children from marrying out of the business. When young and handsome David Nelson (a member of of the famed Nelson family of the television series, and brother of Ricky Nelson) a serviceman stationed in a town near her father's circus, comes her way, Carol's father (Nehemia Persoff) does everything in his power to stop the marriage. Carol's interpretation of the ensuing conflict proves her versatility as an actress.

Originally from Detroit, Carol is the daughter of one of the motor industry's leaders in engineering research and development. At one time she intended to follow in her father's foot steps in the field of mathematics and science. Circumstances took her to New York where she studied drama, modeling and appearing on live TV, on the side. She was sent by Mayor Wagner on a goodwill tour of South America.

Winner of several beauty contests, she concentrated on an acting career, went to Hollywood and entered the 20th Century-Fox drama school headed by Sanford Meisner. Signed by the studio to a long-term contract, she is now rated as one of the studio's most capable young actresses. In her spare time away from the camera, she goes bowling regularly and maintains a creditable average of 140.

Comedienne, 3 Chimps to Share Stage

HOLLYWOOD, June 2 (UP) — Comedienne Peggy Cass, a veteran of three years on the Jack Paar show, moves up in class next season by starring with three chimpanzees in a new TV situation comedy series.

Fun-filled Peggy is unique. She is playing an average American housewife with the trio of chimps as her kids. How average can you get?

"Those chimps lead a good life," she said between takes at the Columbia Pictures ranch. "They live in an air-conditioned trailer right on the lot. I have to commute from the Sunset strip."

What's more, Peggy has to perform her own stunts in the new series which, incidentally, is titled "The Hathaways."

Not so the monkeys. They have a stand-in and stunt man all their own. Funny thing, he's a man and not a chimpanzee which makes him unique among Hollywood's acting fraternity.

"The stand-in is a Mexican midget," Peggy said blandly. "His name is Cha Cha Cha Morales. A real nice guy. He always wanted to be in show business and now he is."

Peggy already is vying with the chimps. She speaks of them fondly, but with reservations.

"They're named Enoch, Charlie and Candy," she explained. "Candy is the baby and very lovable. Enoch is kinda stupid, but sweet. Charlie is the brains of the outfit and bosses the others around. When one of them blows a scene he raises hell with them.

"The other day I was posing for pictures with them and we were all given bananas. The chimps polished their bananas off in a second and began moving in on me.

"I threw the banana in the middle of the floor and let them scramble for it. I ain't gonna get in no fight with three primates."

A Bostonian, Peggy has reddish-blonde hair, a wacky outlook on life and a sense of humor. She's going to need it after the ABC show really gets moving. Working with three chimps can be taxing.

FOOD FACTS
From Leo Soran

From time to time we've had questions about the word 'menu.' What does the word mean? What is its background? Webster's Dictionary calls it the 'bill of fare' or 'listing of foods offered,' which is what our modern menus have become.

Going back a hundred years or more the menu was, more often, the listing of the details of a banquet or large dinner. These were often very elaborate because the prestige of the organization or individual giving the banquet could be greatly enhanced by the beauty of the menu itself.

There's plenty of free parking here at the Depot Grill where we take pride in being known as the family restaurant with the delicious food. Chicken, seafood and steak . . . plus our poular children's special menu. Why not tonight? We're open 24-hours.

Horses Given Most 'Breaks' Actor Claims

HOLLYWOOD, June 2—Playgoers may agree that the snake gets all the lines, but actor-stuntman Frank McGrath says the horse gets all the breaks. At least, in the movies.

Over the years, Frank's done just about everything that can be done with a horse and has broken nearly every bone in his body doing it.

"In pictures, the horse gets off easier than the stuntman," Frank says. "There's usually an SPCA worker on the set to see that the animals aren't abused, but the only one that looks after the stuntman is the stuntman."

Before he took the role as Chuck Wooster in NBC-TV's "Wagon Train," when he was more active as a stuntman, Frank tried cashing in on the featherbedding prepared for movie horses.

"When a horse was supposed to fall, they'd dig a nice hole for him, then fill it with loose dirt as a cushion. I'd try to hit that soft spot, too, but usually landed on my ear out in the rocks."

Frank started as a stuntman in 1921, after his early career as a jockey gave out when a racetrack went bankrupt. In a long and busy career, he's doubled for stars like Buster Keaton, Walter Houston, Roscoe Ates, Herbert Mundin, El Brendel and Warner Baxter. His most serious accident came in 1952 when he broke his back in a fight scene.

Taking all the lumps on a set, Frank had little sympathy for actors until the "Wagon Train" rolled his way.

"I used to gripe about getting my brains kicked in doubling an actor who made all the money. Sometimes I'd even try rattling an actor when he was delivering his lines. But, I'm sorry for all that now."

Frank's turnabout is the result of his own emergence as an actor in the Chuck Wooster role. Gradually, Wooster has been given more demanding scenes and Frank's had to rise to the new challenge.

European Meets To Be Featured

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Television emphasis during the next week centers on President Kennedy's European trip and meetings with France's De Gaulle and Russia's Khrushchev.

All networks are bumping regularly scheduled programs for news specials—some on such short notice that it is best to consult the daily TV listings in the newspaper for the latest word. NBC, for example, will have one of its continuing "JFK" reports daily over the week-end and through Monday.

Director Set

HOLLYWOOD, June 2 (UPI) — Robert Stevenson, director of Walt Disney's "The Absent Minded Professor" and "Old Yeller," has been signed to direct Disney's Jules Verne adventure story "The Castaways."

"The Castaways" is scheduled to be filmed this summer in wide screen and with color.

Youth Follows in Parents' Footsteps

David Ladd and his horse, "Misty," both star in a story of two children's love for the horse. Ladd is the son of Alan Ladd and former actress Sue Carol. He is the only one of four children to follow in the footsteps of his famous parents. "Misty," released by 20th Century-Fox, is in color. (Staff engraving)

2 Children's Love Is Told In Film Tale

Millions of the young-in-heart who have delighted in Marguerite Henry's best-selling tales of children and animals, will hail the arrival of "Misty," 20th Century-Fox color film starring David Ladd, Arthur O'Connell, Anne Seymour and Pam Smith.

"Misty", the poignant story of two children and their love for a wild pony, answers the long-debated need for wholesome film fare which parents, educators, church leaders and even the youngsters themselves demand with increasing vigor. Bringing together the same four talents that made "A Dog of Flanders" a popular success, "Misty" combines the direction of James B. Clark, the writing of Ted Sherdeman, the young star David Ladd and the production of Robert B. Radnitz.

Here is the heartwarming tale of two orphans, twelve-year-old Paul Beebe (David Ladd) and his younger sister—Maureen—(Pam Smith), who have come to live with their grand parents, the Beebes, (Arthur O'Connell and Anne Seymour) on a pony ranch in the tiny island of Chincoteague, Virginia. Grandpa Beebe raises and sells the famous ponies which run wild on the nearby island of Assateague.

Once a year these fleet and beautiful animals are rounded up and swum across the channel for a community auction. Paul and Maureen determine to save their money so that they may have as their own a tiny new brown pony named "Misty."

How the children work and strive to achieve their dream, how they lose their beloved "Misty" to another bidder, win him back in pure surprise, decide to release him into the wilderness again, and find to their joy and amazement that "Misty" would rather live with them than with his own kind, is the theme of the story.

Former Leaders Getting Into Act

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—With CBS planning a series of "conversations" with former President Dwight Eisenhower and ABC talking about series to be called "The Roosevelt Year" and "The Eisenhower Years," former President Harry S. Truman must have been feeling snubbed by TV recently.

However, David Susskind's Talent Associates now is discussing a series on "The Truman Years" with the man from Independence who is said to be interested and receptive.

DEBUT PLANNED

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Shari Lewis, the pert little ventriloquist with a weekly childrens show on NBC, will make her dramatic debut on CBS' Steel Hour on July 12—playing a TV columnist.

Trial Is Slated for Narcotics Charge

LOS ANGELES, June 2 (UPI) — Bobby Driscoll, 24, former child movie star, will stand trial June 19 on a felony narcotics charge.

He was arrested May 3, on suspicion of driving while under the influence of narcotics, two hours after he was released after an arrest on forgery charges.

Driscoll won an Academy award in 1949 for outstanding performances in "The Window" and "So Dear to My Heart."

MacMurray Gets 'Father of Year' Award for Show

HOLLYWOOD, June 2 — Fred MacMurray, star of ABC-TV's "My Three Sons," has been named "Television Father of the Year" by the National Father's Day committee.

MacMurray, accompanied by his wife, June Haver, flew to New York from Hollywood to receive the citation in ceremonies at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. The award was made to him, according to the committee, "Because of his warm and deft comedy portrayal of the father in 'My Three Sons,' and because of the fine standing he has achieved in his community as a citizen and head of his family."
